Inaugural Address.

Delivered by the Mayor,
HON. GEORGE E. HUTCHINS,
March, 26, 1906.

Gentlemen of the City Council:

We are assembled today to take the oath of office and to enter upon the duties of another year. We should work for the best interests of our city, conducting its affairs justly, honestly and impartially, on sound business principles.

The past year has been one of the most trying in the history of Berlin, and I thank the past Council and all the committees for their help and support, and hearty co-operation, also our Deputy Clerk, our Treasurer, and all others in connection with our City Government.

Finance.

The net debt of the city has been increased about $61,000 during the past year. This was caused by the building of a new fire station and two new school houses. In order to complete our new school houses it will be necessary to raise several thousand dollars, and, to do this, I recommend that we increase the valuation of our property, so as to keep down our taxation.

A matter which will need thorough investigation is that of tax sales. We have uncollected taxes to the amount of $31,000, dating back to the year 1901. These are mostly poll taxes. I would suggest that some measures be taken to collect all the poll taxes early in the year, as I believe that several thousand dollars could be saved in this way.

Streets and Sidewalks.

I would recommend that no more streets be laid out until those that have been already laid out be completed, and that if any work be done on Main street that it be paved between Post Office Square and Mason street. Last year we laid about a mile and a quarter of sidewalk, and overran our appropriation by so doing. This year we should keep within the limit.

Sewers.

A great deal of work was done in this department last year, over four carloads of pipe being laid; consequently the appropriation was heavily overdrawn. There still remains a great deal to be done during the coming year. I recommend that sewers be laid only on such streets as have already been laid out.

Fire Department.

We now have one of the finest Central Fire Stations in New England, with all modern, up-to-date apparatus. This has been a great expense to the city. A larger appropriation will be required for the coming year, in order to properly meet the expenses of this department.

Public Schools.

We have already built the Burgess school building, which is one of the best in the county, and now have under way the new High school building which will cost about $40,000. It will be necessary also, to rebuild the Marston School, which was burned in February. We need three new school houses, one in Jericho, one at the Cascades, and one on the east side of the river. I think the addition of these school houses would make our public schools satisfactory to all.

Conclusion.

I desire to express to the citizens of Berlin not only my appreciation of the honor conferred upon me in my re-election, but also for the confidence which they have placed in me.

I will endeavor to perform all duties that may come before me justly and impartially.

Ordinances.

In the Year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and six.
AN ORDINANCE relating to building and repairing buildings in the City of Berlin, N. H.

Be it ordained by the City Council of the City of Berlin, as follows:

Section 1. For the purpose of securing the City of Berlin, N. H. from excessive damage by fire, a fire district is hereby established as follows, to-wit: On either side of Main street between the point where said Main street crosses the track of the Glen Junction Transfer Company on the Gorham Road, so called, and the point where the tracks of the Berlin Mills Branch of the Grand Trunk Railway crosses said Main street near Ste. Anne's Roman Catholic church; and on either side of Exchange street, so called, between Post Office Square and the main line tracks of the Grand Trunk Railway Company; and on either side of Union street, so called; on either side of Mechanic street, between the points where it intersects Main street and Cole street, so called; and on either side of Pleasant street, so called; and on either side of Mason street between the iron bridge which crosses the canal of the International Paper Company and Pleasant street; on either side of Green street, so called, from Post Office square to the Underpass at the Grand Trunk Railway Company's tracks.

Section 2. WALLS. The external and party walls of all buildings hereafter erected within the above described limits shall be of stone, brick, concrete, iron, or other hard and non-combustible materials; and all such walls shall be bonded and solidly built, and laid in mortar composed of Portland cement, lime, and sand; they shall rest on foundations of stone, or concrete, not less than eight (8) inches wider at the top of the foundation wall, than the base width of the wall resting upon it.

All foundation walls shall be battered on the exterior faces (where it is necessary to resist the earth pressure), and of a proper width at the base, as approved by the Inspector; and shall be carried down to and rest on ledge or hardpan.

Brick walls for buildings one story, two stories, or three stories in height shall not be less than twelve (12) inches thick, and all properly bonded with a course of headers every eighth course, or other bond approved by the inspector. (12-inch walls shall be limited to forty-five feet in height).

For all brick walls of buildings four (4) stories in height (limited to total height of sixty feet), the first story (not less than fifteen feet) shall be sixteen (16) inches thick, and walls above this twelve (12) inches thick. Buildings five (5) stories high shall have walls twenty (20) inches thick to second floor, sixteen (16) inches thick from second to third floor, and twelve (12) inches thick for remainder of the height of the building. (5-story buildings limited, under above conditions, to eighty feet total height).

PARTY WALLS.

In buildings hereafter built, within the fire district, party walls shall be built through and at least twenty (20) inches above or distant from the roof boarding, at the nearest point; shall be covered at the top with stone, tile, concrete or metal, securely fastened and corbelled to the outer edges of all projections.

Floor and other timbers entering party walls shall enter the wall not less than four (4) inches, and the said walls must have at least four (4) inches of solid masonry between the ends of any and all timbers; openings, or doorways in party walls, or in partition wall shall not exceed two (2) openings on each floor; and the combined area of such openings on each floor shall not exceed one hundred (100) square feet.

Each opening must be provided with two (2) sets of metal covered doors, separated by the thickness of wall, hung to rabbeted iron frames or to iron hinges in brick, stone, concrete, or iron rabbets.

The planking and sheathing of the roof shall not extend across or over the party wall in any case.

VAULTED WALLS

Shall contain, exclusive of withes (air space), same amount of material (brick) as solid walls. Walls on either side of air space shall not be less than eight (8) inches thick, and air space shall cease above level of the ceiling of the upper story of the building, and be carried up solid to top of walls.

CONCRETE BLOCK WALLS.

The thickness of walls for any building where hollow concrete blocks are used shall not be less than is required by the ordinance relating to brick walls. The figures given in the following table represent the percentage of such hollow space for the different height of walls:

Stories	First	Second	Third	Fourth	Fifth
1 & 2	33 p c	33 p c
3 & 4	25 p c	33 p c	33 p c	33 p c
5	20 p c	25 p c	25 p c	33 p c	33 p c

Where the face only is of hollow concrete building block and the backing is of brick, the facing of hollow concrete blocks shall be strongly bonded to the brick, either with headers projecting four (4) inches into the brickwork, every fourth course being a header course, or with approved ties; no brick backing to be less than eight (8) inches.

Where the walls are made entirely of hollow concrete blocks, but where said blocks have not the same width as the wall, every fifth course shall extend entirely through the wall, forming a secure bond; all walls where blocks are used shall be laid in Portland cement mortar.

All hollow concrete building blocks before being used in the construction of any building in the fire district of the city of Berlin, shall have attained the age of at least three (3) weeks.

Wherever girders or joists rest upon the walls, so that there is a concentrated load of over two (2) tons, the blocks supporting the girders or joists must be made solid.

When such concentrated load shall exceed five (5) tons, the blocks for two (2) courses below and for a distance extending at least eighteen (18) inches on each side of said girder shall be made solid. Where the load from the girder exceeds seven (7) tons, the blocks for three (3) courses beneath it shall be made solid.

Wherever walls are decreased in thickness the top course of the thicker wall is to be solid.

All piers and buttresses that support loads in excess of five (5) tons, shall be built of solid concrete blocks for such a distance below as the Inspector may require.

Concrete lintels and sills shall be re-inforced by iron or steel rods in a manner satisfactory to the building inspector, and any lintels spanning over four (4) feet six (6) inches in the clear shall rest on solid concrete blocks.

The manufacturer and user of any such hollow concrete building blocks as are mentioned in this ordinance shall at any and all times have made such tests of the cement used in making such blocks, or further tests of the completed blocks, or each of these, at their own expense and under the supervision of the building inspector, as he may require.

A copy of result of such test will be given the manufacturer and user of the blocks.

The cement used in making said blocks shall be American Portland cement of any standard manufacture, and of good, fresh quality.

ASHLAR

Less than eight (8) inches thick shall not be considered in thickness of wall. Eight (8) inches and over in thickness, excess over four (4) inches, may be reckoned in thickness of wall; shall be at least four (4) inches thick.

Section 3. The roofs of all buildings and additions to buildings within said fire district hereafter erected shall be properly and securely covered with slate, tin, iron or other non-combustible materials approved by the Inspector of buildings.

Section 4. No building now erected or hereafter to be erected, within said district, shall be altered, raised, roofed, enlarged, or otherwise added to or built upon in any way, until the requirements of Sections 2, 3, and 4 have been complied with, and a license granted by the City Council; and no roof of any such buildings now covered with shingles or other combustible material shall be recovered except with slate or other non-combustible materials. The City Council may grant licenses to make wooden additions to wooden buildings now existing within said fire district, providing, however, that such addition shall not exceed twenty-five per cent. of the value of the building now existing, upon such terms and conditions, and subject to such limitations as the Inspector of Buildings may prescribe.

Section 5. No wooden building shall be moved from one lot to another in said district, nor from without said district into said district, nor from place to place on the same lot within said district, without a special license first obtained from the City Council. No wooden building outside of the above described limits of said fire district shall be moved a distance of more than fifty (50) feet without first obtaining a special license from the City Council.

Section 6. When any building built wholly or in part of wood, standing within said district, shall be damaged by fire or other causes, to an amount exceeding sixty per cent. of its value, it shall not be repaired, or rebuilt of wood or any combustible material.

Section 7. It shall not be lawful to build upon the front walls of any building within said district any portico, porch, bay windows, balcony, or any other projection over the street, unless by permit from the City Council.

Section 8. All persons or corporations desiring to alter or add to present buildings within said district shall fill out and present printed application, furnished by the Inspector of Buildings, and submit plans and descriptions giving strength of construction, alteration, and modes of egress in case of fire, to said Inspector of Buildings; and no alterations or additions to present buildings shall be commenced until the owner shall file a copy of all plans and specifications with the Inspector, and such have been approved by the Inspector of Buildings and a license granted by the City Council.

Section 9. All persons or corporations desiring to erect new buildings or to alter or to add to present buildings upon any public street, alleys or lanes outside of the district described in Section 1, shall fill out and present applications, furnished by the Inspector of Buildings, and submit plans or descriptions of said buildings, alterations, or additions, to the building inspector; and no person or corporation shall commence operations on said building until said Inspector of Buildings has approved the same, and granted a permit in writing. A copy of all plans or descriptions must be filed with the Inspector.

Section 10. FIRE STOPS. In all buildings, within the limits described in Section 1, hereafter erected, fire stops must be placed as follows: At the bottom of all partitions and between the studing, to be closely filled with three (3) courses of bricks high, closely fitted into the partitions, and bedded and laid in cement mortar.

Section 11. The Inspector of Buildings, by giving sixty (60) days' notice, may order suitable fire escapes placed in any building of two (2) stories or over in height which is used as a hotel, tenement house, hall, or other public resort, whether within or without the district described in Section 1.

Section 12. All applications to the City Council under this Ordinance, shall first be submitted to the Inspector of Buildings as provided in Section 9, and he shall examine the premises and make a report, either recommending the granting of licenses, or otherwise, and his report shall be presented with the petition to the City Council. If the report of the Inspector be adverse, the petition shall only be granted by an affirmative vote of two-thirds of the full Council.

CHIMNEYS (Within City Limits)

Section 13. No chimney shall be corbelled from the wall more than the thickness of the wall, nor be hung from a wall less than twelve (12) inches thick, nor rest on wood in any case.

All the chimneys shall be built of brick, concrete, terra cotta, or other incombustible material, approved by the Inspector.

Brick chimneys shall have walls eight (8) inches thick, unless glazed tile flue linings are used, in which case four (4) inches of brickwork may be omitted.

The inside of all flues shall have struck joints and not be plastered on the inside with cement or mortar, but be left free and clean from all projecting mortar.

All brickwork and tile flue lining in chimneys shall be laid up in Portland cement and sand (4 to 1) mortar, and all chimneys shall be topped out at least three (3) feet above the highest point of contact with the roof.

No woodwork or framing shall come within one (1) inch to the outside of any smoke flue, or any nails be driven into chimneys to support woodwork, etc. Where smoke flues or pipes enter chimneys or pass through plastered partitions they shall be constructed as follows: The partition shall be framed square, leaving an opening at least three (3) inches greater in diameter than the diameter of the smoke flue or pipe, and the smoke flue or pipe shall have a ventilated metal collar; this collar shall not come in contact with the woodwork, and all plastering shall be on metal lath or wire securely nailed to the square opening.

All smoke openings into chimney flues shall be placed so that the top of frame opening shall be at least fifteen (15) inches below the floor joists above.

Section 14. ACCESS TO ROOF. All buildings over twenty (20) feet high shall have permanent means of access to the roof from the inside; the opening shall not be less than 24x30 inches.

CUTTING OF TIMBERS, ETC.

Section 15. Floor joists and supporting girders shall not be cut out for piping, etc.; the pipes must pass by and around in all cases, and where steam pipes pass through floors, ceilings, or partitions, a clear space of at least one (1) inch must be left clear all around pipes.

Section 16. Any person or corporation, whether owner, lessee, contractor, workman or agent, who shall violate any of the provisions of this Ordinance shall be liable to a penalty of not more than twenty (20) dollars for each offense.

Section 17. This Ordinance shall take effect upon its passage.

Section 18. The ordinance entitled "An Ordinance Relating to Building and Repairing Buildings in the City of Berlin," passed May 12th, 1904, together with all ordinances or parts of ordinances inconsistent with this ordinance, are hereby repealed.

Passed May 17th, 1906.

Approved,
G. E. HUTCHINS, Mayor.

A RESOLUTION to raise a sum not to exceed eleven thousand dollars ($11,000) to pay the land damages and other expenses to be incurred in extending Pleasant street from Mechanic street to Green street.

Resolved by the City Council of the City of Berlin, as follows:

That a sum not to exceed eleven thousand dollars ($11,000) be appropriated out of the license money due the City of Berlin from the State Board of License Commissioners when the same shall be paid to the City Treasurer, to pay the land damages and other expenses to be incurred in extending Pleasant street from Mechanic street to Green street, as described in the petition signed by C. Brooks and others, the same being on file in the City Clerk's office.

Mayor's Veto.

Gentlemen of the City Council:—

I desire to take up for consideration the Resolution passed July 3, 1906. That a sum not exceeding eleven thousand dollars be appropriated out of the license money due the City of Berlin from the State Board of License Commissioners, when the same shall be paid to the City Treasurer, to pay the land damages and other expenses to be incurred in extending Pleasant street from Mechanic street to Green street, as described in a petition signed by C. Brooks and others, the same being on file in the City Clerk's office.

At the time the resolution was introduced I was not in favor of its passage, nor upon thinking it over, and on examination of our financial condition and our numerous urgent needs for the use of money in other ways, does it meet with my approval.

We have about exhausted our right to borrow money under the existing laws, and in making the appropriations for the year they were made very low and the further probability that as heretofore they would be largely overdrawn, compels me to say that we needed this money to supply this expected need and to repair the existing highways and sewers and build those highways already laid out by the Council, now untouched, and to lay those sewers voted to be laid by this Council. As appears by the report of the City Treasurer of July 5th, 1906, showing the amount drawn and expended by the different departments, I feel warranted in saying that the appropriations as made for the year are not enough to meet the demands of the different departments, and that at the end of the year we shall be met with an overdraft which we shall be unable to pay if the license fund is diverted from the channel for which it was intended.

For building and repairing highways we voted to raise and appropriate nine thousand dollars, of this sum the Treasurer July 5th, inst. reports that five thousand six hundred and sixty-three dollars and thirty-six cents have already been drawn, leaving a balance of but three thousand three hundred and thirty-six dollars and sixty-four cents to build and repair thirty-one streets, which owing to the large rainfall imperatively demand immediate attention, and to clear the snow during the winter months.

The following streets are referred to:

Western Avenue Extension; five streets at Cascades; Godso street; Factory street; Second avenue. Noyes street; Gilbert street; Jolbert street; Hillside Avenue Extension; part of Church street; part of High street; Prospect street; Washington street; Willard street; Hemlock street; Pine street; State street; Holt street; First, Second, Third, and Fourth streets; Union street; Granite street; part of School street; part of Mason street, and Sweden street.

The reference made to the condition of the appropriation for streets is exemplified by nearly all other departments, and that with the constantly growing needs, and judging by the past they can never be anticipated, compels me to take the stand I have.

While it may be of great value to adjoining land owners to extend Pleasant street to Green street I do not believe that the taxpayers are willing to incur so great an outlay when our finances are in their present condition. Owing to fire and other unexpected causes our treasury has endured a severe strain, and until this strain is relieved, I shall as heretofore, try to keep the expenditures within bounds, and suited to the ability of the tax-payer who desires only for those things which a conservative business man would consider necessary to satisfy his wants.

I therefore veto the resolution.

DEPARTMENT REPORTS.

Department of City Poor.

BERLIN, N. H., February 15, 1907.

To His Honor, the Mayor, and City Council of the City of Berlin :

Gentlemen—I herewith submit my report as overseer of the City Poor, for the year ending February 15, 1907. For the past fifteen years this department has been in my charge, and I believe this is the first time since Berlin became a city that the appropriation has been overdrawn, but in this instance it was unavoidable. At the beginning of the fiscal year, just closed, I made a recommendation to the finance committee for an appropriation of $2000. This amount was provided and at the time I believed it would be sufficient to carry this department through the year, but, after a few months had elapsed, I found that with the strictest care and economy it would be impossible to go to the end of the year without an overdraft. The estimate is always based upon the expense of families we have upon the list at the time and whatever increase we can reasonably look for a year in advance. This increase has been greater than in the preceding year, and from present indications bids fair to continue somewhat. This is not only true of the city cases, but also of county cases in the city. This account shows somewhat over a thousand dollars larger than in 1905. This we can attribute to no one particular cause, as it takes but little in the majority of cases to force a family upon the city or county for support. A large proportion of the laboring people of Berlin are poor and are living from hand to mouth, and usually have large families. Some misfortune like accident or sickness will throw them upon the city. Some men have abandoned their families through discouragement and gone elsewhere, in most instances these men have returned after a time but quite a number have never been heard of again. It may seem strange to some that in a community that affords the opportunities for employment that our city offers, that all cannot find employment, but it is true and it is a condition that will continue. The present winter is a severe one for the poor.

The supplies furnished have in every instance been purchased at the market value, and care taken that the orders have not been over run. One of the largest items at the present time is fuel. The report on the Couture house is as follows :

Cash on hand reported one year ago.....	$ 25.68
Received from rent and insurance adjusted.....	239.00
	$ 264.68
Paid board and care of Mrs. Francois Couture and repairs to property on account of fire.....	$ 212.17
Balance cash on hand.....	$ 52.51

This house is small and consists of three very small rents, and is very difficult to keep tenanted by people who will or can pay, but, barring some few losses, I have succeeded in getting enough returns from the property to support Mrs. Couture, from whom it was taken. I would recommend that it be disposed of. I believe that I can see where the coming year will increase our pauper bills and would respectfully suggest that the appropriation be increased to $2500.00. I desire to again thank the city officials for assistance rendered to me in the discharge of the duties of the office, and the public in general in behalf of our unfortunate poor, for the growing interest that is taken in them and their condition.

Respectfully submitted,

A. B. FORBUSH, Overseer of Poor.

January 15, C. N. Hodgdon. Damage $11,547; insurance paid, $11,547. G. W. Gordon. Damage, $4,447.87; insurance paid, $3,900. Mrs. M. E. James. Damage, $300; insurance paid $300. Dr. F. H. Vallender. Damage, $1,000; insurance paid, $500. E. W. Gross, no insurance. Miss McLeod, no insurance. Russell & Craigie, no insurance. John Goebel & Co., no insurance. M. J. Porier, no insurance. Dr. H. Wade, no insurance. C. H. Morrill, damage yet unknown. Rev. Tandberg, no insurance. C. A. Leonard, no insurance. C. M. Bean, no insurance. P. W. McHugh. Damage, $800.18; insurance paid, $800.18. P. Bouchard. Damage to goods, $79.60.

January 16, Pete Laurendo, still alarm. No damage.

January 19, Mr. Finkel, still alarm. No damage.

January 28, Frank Cross. No damage.

January 31, Joseph Steinfeld. Damage, $15.

January 31, International paper Co. Damage $100.

January 31, Mr. McCutcheon. Damage to goods, $20.

February 12, Box 25, false alarm.

February 14, Joseph Steinfeld, still alarm. No damage.

Now that our fire department is in good condition to battle with the flames, I will recommend a few other things that we should have in order to protect the city.

I recommend that one hydrant and one alarm box be placed on the East side near Mayor Hutchins residence, and another hydrant on Burgess street near box 52. There should also be hydrants, a small hose house and reel and seven call men at the Cascades to protect the residents of that section.

New wiring should also be done, as some of the old wire is in poor condition.

New hardwood floors should be laid in the main room of the Central Fire Station. Iron shutters should also be put on the windows of the hay loft for protection against fire. I also recommend that a hose tower should be built in the Central Fire Station for drying hose, as it is injurious to hose to dry it on racks as the water does not run out properly, and leaves the hose moist. I would also suggest that fifteen call men be added to the department.

Fire escapes should be placed on the A. E. Parent block, and an alarm box should be placed in St. Giles as it is quite a distance from there to box 25.

There should also be a place made for drying bedding, as a great deal could be saved in this way.

I also want another three way Eastman deluge set.

A hydrant should be placed near box 41, and lastly I recommend that a combination hose and chemical be placed at Berlin Mills and the straight chemical be disposed of and replaced by a combination at the Central Fire Station.

The above recommendations have been made with a desire to be able to render as efficient service as possible, and I trust that they will merit your careful consideration.

Respectfully submitted,

J. N. RECORD, Chief Engineer,

Report of City Solicitor.

BERLIN, N. H., February 15, 1907.

To His Honor, the Mayor, and City Council of the City of Berlin:

Herewith I beg to submit my report as City Solicitor of the City of Berlin for the year ending February 15th, 1907.

At the time I assumed the office of City Solicitor the following cases were pending in court:

Gustav Halvorsen vs. City of Berlin.

Emily C. Paine vs. City of Berlin.

Evan Johnson vs. City of Berlin.

The Halverson case was an action commenced in April, 1905, for alleged damages to his property on Sixth Street by surface water. The Mayor and various members of the City Council have looked over this property, and I anticipate that with the consent of your Honorable Body, this matter will be settled and finally closed up shortly.

The Paine case is an appeal from the laying out of the highway over Cates Hill, and a hearing will probably be held before the County Commissioners at some date to be decided upon by agreement of counsel; as will also the petition of Evan Johnson.

The following suits have been instituted against the City since April 1st, 1906, the date on which I assumed the office of Solicitor:

Elmer L. Abbott vs. City of Berlin.

Archibald I. Lawrence vs. City of Berlin.

Foss T. McNally vs. City of Berlin.

Erick Erickson vs. City of Berlin.

Mamie E. Goulette vs. City of Berlin.

Luke H. Martin vs. City of Berlin.

The matter of Elmer L. Abbott was a petition for a writ of certiorari to review the proceedings relative to widening Main street. The Council in March, 1905, awarded this party $266.00, and the case was settled with the consent of the City Council, by paying him $400.00.

The case of Archibald I. Lawrence vs. The City was an action to recover on an alleged contract made with the Board of Education for plans relating to the New Marston School. This case was tried at the December term of the Superior Court held in Berlin, and resulted in a nonsuit for the plaintiff.

REPORT OF CITY SOLICITOR.

The case of Foss T. McNally against the City is an action of $15,000.00 for damages which he claims to have received by reason of surface water flowing upon his property during the months of June and July, 1906. This case is in order for trial at the April Term of the Superior Court.

The case of Mamie E. Goulette is an action to recover damages for alleged personal injuries received on High street in January, 1906. This case is also in order for trial at the April Term of the Superior Court.

The suit of Erick Erickson is an action to recover damages which he claims to have received to his property on Sixth Street by surface water. This case is similar to the Halverson suit, and the property has been inspected by the Mayor and some members of the Council. Unless the case is settled before the April Term of Court it will be in order for trial at that time.

The suit of Luke H. Martin was an action to recover $24.00, the amount which he claimed for making sixteen complaints and warrants during the time the Solicitor was absent from the City attending court. The case was tried at the last term of the Superior Court held in the City, and judgment ordered for the plaintiff for $12.00.

In addition to the above litigation there has been the usual amount of legal work to be attended to daily in the Police Court, consisting of the preparations of complaints and warrants and trial of cases, which work is shown fully by the reports of the Police Court and Police Commission.

Numerous small claims against the City have been presented, and have been paid or disallowed, all with the approval of your Honorable Body.

In making this report I might suggest the advisability of the enactment of an Ordinance conferring upon the Chief of the Fire Department the right to make an inspection of the buildings in the mercantile section at stated periods during the year, thus lessening the fire hazard.

In conclusion, I desire to thank the Judge of the Police Court and the City Marshal for their courtesy and kindness extended during the year.

Respectfully submitted,

MATTHEW J. RYAN, City Solicitor.

Report of Police Commission.

To His Excellency, the Governor of the State of New Hampshire, and to His Honor, the Mayor, and City Council of the City of Berlin:—

We herewith submit our annual report for the year nineteen hundred and six.

With the exception of appointing one additional patrolman, making six in all, and twenty-seven special policemen, making sixty in all, there has been no change in the Police Department from last year.

In appointing patrolmen the needs of the city as well as the appropriation of the Police Department has always been considered, and while the small number of patrolmen may seem out of proportion for a city this size, the beats are so arranged that some of the patrolmen are confined to the busy sections of the city at all hours, and with a man constantly on hand at the City Marshal's office subject to telephone call, no difficulty in enforcing the law or quelling disturbances has been experienced.

Each officer is provided with a set of rules and regulations respecting his duties, and the commissioners insist that he shall familiarize himself with them.

It is with a great deal of pleasure that the Commissioners report that no serious crimes have been committed in our city during the past year, and that the number of minor offences are growing less.

Below is a statement in detail of the number of violations of the criminal law that have received the attention of the Police Department during the past year :

REPORT OF BOARD OF HEALTH.

BERLIN, N. H., February 15th, 1907.

To His Honor, the Mayor, and City Council of the City of Berlin :

It is with pleasure that I submit to you the tenth annual report of the Board of Health of the City of Berlin, N. H., for the year ending February 15th, 1907.

Work of the Board of Health.

The increased amount of work demanded of the Board, for the last year forced me to appoint one of the members of the Board as Inspector. He did very satisfactory work, looking up all cases of communicable diseases, and also doing the disinfection of all the houses which contained communicable and infectious diseases. I would recommend to the City Council the appointment of a permanent Inspector. It would cost the city less money and the work would be done more satisfactorily.

Vaccination.

In January and February, 1907, we had four cases of small pox in the city. Dr. Cook of Concord, N. H., was called to inspect the cases, and he called them small pox in a mild form, the name being varioloid. I was ordered by the State Board of Health to vaccinate all the children in the public and parochial schools. I have vaccinated over five hundred up to date, the results being successful.

Medical Inspection of Schools.

The City Council should appoint a Medical Inspector of Schools. Our school population is large and we are proud of it. We are proud of our schools, our teaching and our buildings, but personal contact with the scholars shows that there are constantly occurring cases of communicable disease which need at least temporary exclusion to prevent their spreading. Contagious skin diseases have been altogether too prevalent during the past few years, and several small epidemics of scarlet fever can be traced by spreading of the disease by children attending school. Parents have a right to demand that in addition to the best of school facilities which we fortunately possess, the city should provide sufficient medical inspection to prevent the spreading of communicable diseases.

Milk.

The Board feels that much has been done during the past year to improve the quality of the milk supply of the city, and, what is of more consequence, to improve the conditions under which milk is produced, so that a cleaner, safer product may be assured. Reports have been received from the State Board of Health as to the conditions of many dairies, and recommendations were made in certain instances. Many samples of milk were sent to the State Laboratory to be examined, the results of the examinations being satisfactory.

Oysters, clams, cider, vinegar, sausages and molasses were sent to the State Laboratory to be examined, the results of the examinations being satisfactory.

Laboratory Facilities.

The State Board of Health furnishes physicians of this city with facilities for free laboratory tests in suspected cases of typhoid fever. This work is done by the bacteriologists of the State Board. This Board feels that in providing free laboratory facilities for the diagnosis, and corroboration of cases of typhoid fever, diphtheria and tuberculosis, it is placing Berlin in the front rank as compared with larger cities which have maintained such service for many years.

Contagious Diseases.

More work than usual has been done in caring for premises where infectious diseases existed. This included placarding, and obtaining a complete history of each case together with the removal of notification cards, the cleaning and fumigating of premises after the death or recovery of the patients. All houses containing a case of tuberculosis were fumigated after the death of the patient.

Infectious Diseases.

Sanitary Inspection.

Investigation of alleged nuisances, widely different in character, constitutes a large part of the work of the Board of Health, and the following up of these complaints often leads to the finding of neighboring insanitary conditions which need correction. House to house inspection is the only means for ascertaining the sanitary conditions of our city.

Plumbing.

The Board of Health did not receive any complaint during the year as all plumbing was done in a satisfactory and skillful way. The plumbing of the few houses inspected was found to be in a satisfactory condition.

Water Supply.

The water supply of the city was very defective last spring. An inspection of the reservoirs was made, and many of the reservoirs were condemned, such as the Ramiard, D'Amour, Ramsey, and one belonging to the Green spring system was condemned and shut off from the main system. All the above reservoirs are closed, not to be used again. The pumping station was condemned and closed but is now in good sanitary condition. Several samples of water have been taken from the different supplies of the city, and sent to the State laboratory for analysis. The result shows that the colon of typhoid fever was not present. The Forbush aqueduct on the east side was examined and found to be in very good condition. Many samples of the water were sent to the State Board for analysis, and the Board found the water good and pure.

Sewers.

The Board of Health has received more complaints from this source than all the others put together. Many of our streets have no sewers to accommodate the houses on those streets, and in many places you can see sewer drainage run on the surface of the ground around the neighboring houses. This is very dangerous to the public health. State street was in a very bad condition last spring but a sewer was put in, and is satisfactory to everyone living in that neighborhood. Good sewer drainage is the foundation for good sanitary conditions in a city, and this should be looked after very strictly by the Sewer Commissioner.

Pure Food Law.

As this law went into effect the first day of January the State Board has called on this Board but once to take up samples of different foods. This was on February second. I have not received any answer from the Board regarding these samples, as yet. The pure food law will be enforced hereafter, and samples will be sent to the State laboratory very often. People who buy goods that are not labelled according to the pure food law will confer a favor upon this Board by reporting the same.

The members of the Board of Health wish to thank the Mayor and Councilmen for their co-operation during the year.

Respectfully submitted,

A. PROVOST, M. D., Chairman	} Board of Health

Other gifts consist of a second year's subscription to the Etude, a musical magazine, from the members of the St. Cecilia Club; a year's subscription to the Christian Science Journal, from four ladies, Mrs. H. N. Cordwell, Mrs. C. E. Green, Mrs. Ina Wilson, and Mrs. Lena Johnson. The Christian Science Sentinel is given by Mrs. Cordwell. Back numbers of miscellaneous magazines have been given by Mrs. E. Mc. Macy and Mrs. J. D. Holt.

Last April, the Dickens' Club, which consists of five High school girls under the leadership of the librarian, presented a fine bust of Dickens to the library. The Club held a very pretty reception at the library at the time of the presentation.

The Woman's Relief Corps has presented the library with a facsimile of the Declaration of Independence, beautifully framed.

Work has been carried on in much the same lines as last year. The Story Hour has been continued with ever increasing popularity. Indeed, so many children flocked to it, that it was defeating the purpose for which it was conducted. When 150 to 250 children were crowded in among the tables in the present children's room, it is evident that not much personal work can be done by the librarians before nor after the Story. It is to the children's credit, as well as to the story-tellers', that no discipline is required during the Story. They behave better than many older ones would, if they were crowded into such close quarters. It is deemed best now to discontinue the Story Hour until the rooms in the basement are finished. The librarian tried to raise money by means of an illustrated lecture, to defray the expense of finishing at least one room in the basement, hoping thus to avoid the necessity of discontinuing the Story Hour. But the public could not realize but that our new building was ample for all needs, and did not patronize the lecture very extensively, though this may have been due to the extremely cold temperature of the evening on which the lecture was held.

The librarian has tried to call the attention of the public to the library, by sending articles or news items to one or both of the local papers each week. Sometimes these articles have taken the form of a list of books on a given subject, on a list of the historical fiction covering a certain period in history, or a description of one of the pictures hanging on the walls. Acknowledgment should be made of the kindness of the editors of the papers, in thus helping the library to "advertise its wares." A scrap book, is kept, in which is pasted every article which appears in print about our library. We think this will be of interest in years to come.

Our picture collection grows in quantity and usefulness, though we must confess not as fast as it might. The children bring us pictures of various sorts and their bringing of them delights us even more than do the pictures themselves, because it shows how interested the children are. We should be pleased to have the public, big and little, help to increase the usefulness of our picture collection, and this they could do, both by giving pictures and by asking to borrow the pictures we already have. The librarian is very desirous of making a collection of Berlin views. If our amateur photographers would only consider how very rapidly Berlin is changing its appearance in almost every quarter of the city, and how exceedingly interesting and even valuable an album would be years hence, that was made up entirely of Berlin views taken at various times, each picture properly labelled, they might take the little extra trouble it would require, to give the library an unmounted copy of every Berlin view they take.

Three small bulletin boards have been added to our equipment this past year, and we have tried to keep these filled with interesting matter, one with notices and comments on new books, another with pictures or material to call to mind the anniversary of some event, and the other with material of interest to the children.

More and more reference work is done at the library, but not enough even yet to demand the services of an extra assistant whose sole office shall be to attend to reference work. This is a "consummation devoutly to be wished."

This library has been privileged to borrow books from the State Library for some years back and many patrons have availed themselves of this privilege. Recently the Boston Public Library has the same courtesy, and now any one desiring a book which is not found in our own library, can obtain it from the Boston Library by applying to your librarian and paying transportation charges.

The books of the Rev. John Horne Library, which was given sometime ago, have not been catalogued yet, because the donors wish to have a distinctive bookplate made for the collection and this has not been forthcoming.

Work in the children's room has been carried on most successfully this past year. We have devoted considerable energy to this department from the start, but the work has gone much more smoothly this last year than ever before. More children have been reached and their trust in their librarian is more implicit. Miss Boothby has been very successful in winning the favor of the little folks and in stimulating their interest. 'Tis a trying position that the children's librarian has to fill, but Miss Boothby has proved herself equal to it. One who can help a child to form a liking for wholesome reading, is doing a grand work. It is not the number of books a child reads that makes him better; it is the kind, and the manner in which he reads them.

Much more and better work yet could be done, if the children's room could be moved downstairs. One does not realize how fast our library grows. With the children's room in its present location, the children seem to fill the whole building, and while they are orderly and well-behaved, so many moving about so continuously as children do, keep the building far from being the quiet place it should be. With the children's room downstairs, more room would be given to the adult readers, and this is needed, too. The present reading room is small, and a whisper disturbs the whole room. If what is now the children's room could be used for adult readers, patrons would not be so crowded and the building could be kept more quiet, as it should be. The children need a larger room, and many things could be done for them if the danger of disturbing older readers was removed that cannot be thought of under the present conditions. The room we would suggest to be used for a children's room is well lighted and is indeed the pleasantest room in the whole building. The room under the present reading room is needed, too, for the Story Hour and for the use of literary clubs. Great work could be done in various ways, if these two rooms could be finished. The expense of finishing these rooms will not exceed $300.00 in all probability, and I would urge the consideration of this need upon your honorable body.

As my connection with the library in Berlin, will probably close with the end of the current year, it seems fitting to review briefly the growth of the library, from its inception to the present time; the more so, as no authentic history exists, except as it has been published from year to year, in the town and city reports.

In 1891, the legislature of the State of New Hampshire passed an act whereby any town desiring to open a free library might, on certain conditions, obtain a gift from the state of $100.00 worth of books selected by the Board of Library Commissioners. The town of Berlin did not take advantage of this provision till the year 1893, when the selectmen appointed a board of three trustees, who should consider the advisability of complying with the conditions. These trustees were Dr. H. W. Johnson, Rev. James Goodwin, and Mr. H. J. Brown. Being public spirited citizens, and always alive to the educational and literary growth of the town, these men interested themselves actively in the matter at once. Dr. H. W. Johnson was appointed chairman, with full powers.

Two small rooms were secured in the northwestern corner of a building known as the Clement Block, situated on the north corner of Main and Mason streets. This was then a wooden building, facing lengthwise on Main street. The library rooms were reached by a flight of stairs running up the outside of the north end of the block. The books offered by the state were asked for, the town made an appropriation of $120.00 for the maintenance of the library, Miss Johnson was appointed librarian at a salary of $25.00 per year, and the library work was begun in October.

It was decided in the beginning, to reject the system of classification advised by the State Board, as being ill-adapted to a library of the size which our library would soon reach and also for the work which it was intended the library should do. Recent years have repeatedly shown the wisdom of this course.

The classification known as the "Decimal" was adopted, with the Cutter system for the book numbers. At the time, the system seemed entirely out of proportion to the library—there was more "system" than books, but that was no hindrance to the work. Our library has never outgrown its classification, and we have never had to re-classify our collection,—an expensive and troublesome piece of business. We know of several libraries in the state where this has been necessary at a cost of six or seven hundred dollars.

The library was opened to the public November 22, 1893, and was open Wednesday and Saturday afternoons and Saturday evenings. The charging method selected was that known as the "slip system." In February, 1896, it was found necessary to add one day to the delivery days, and the library was opened Mondays, and also Wednesday afternoons in addition to the previous hours, thus giving fifteen hours in the week, that the library was opened to the public.

The institution proved popular at once. The circulation the first full year, from Feb. 15, 1894 to Feb. 15, 1895 was 3,225; the following year it nearly doubled, being 6,132 and has steadily increased each year, till this current year when 30,082 books have been loaned. The circulation of these first few years of the library's life, was almost entirely fiction. No reference work was done, and none was encouraged, as the books were so few and there was no room in which to do it. Several citizens gave volumes to the library, and in February, 1894, three months after the library was opened, there were 320 volumes belonging to the institution.

In 1894, the owner of the block decided to build a larger block on the site, and the original building was "moved around the corner," facing on Mason street, and incorporated in the new block. At this time, the library seized the opportunity to enlarge its quarters, and two adjoining rooms were engaged for the stack and delivery rooms, and a little later the original stack room was re-engaged, to be used for a small reading room. At this time, also, the Berlin Mills Company decided to offer a collection of valuable books in a room maintained by them as a library at the upper village, on condition that the town should never locate its library south of Mason street. There were 922 books in this collection besides the few duplicates of those already in the library; nearly all were in excellent condition, and they were gladly accepted on the terms named. The librarian being ill at the time, the work of cataloguing this collection was entrusted to Mr. John W. Condon, at that time a student in Bowdoin College. He quickly grasped the system in use here, and so accurately and carefully was the work done, that few or none of the books had to be re-catalogued. After these books were in their places on the shelves, the volumes in the library numbered 1,172.

With the acquisition of a reading room, more attention was given to the reference department, and a large number of standard reference works appear in the purchasing lists at this time. People were encouraged to study in the library, to get accustomed to considering it as a place in which to seek information, pupils in the public schools were invited to consult its shelves in research work on a small scale, and in this way was laid the foundation of the great work which this library has been doing in this direction in the new building.

Public spirited citizens assisted as often as they were shown in what ways they could be of use, and much money has been raised in this way, by means of lectures, suppers, "May breakfasts," etc. In 1900, the librarian was asked to send in a competition list of 2500 volumes for the beginnings of a library at Clinton, Me. As her list was practically the one selected, she was invited to go to Clinton in the summer of 1900 to catalogue the library, train the librarian, and in general, to "set the machinery running." As this necessitated her absence from the library here, Mr. W. W. Brown offered to recompense the city, by giving to the library at Berlin a sum of money equal to whatever might be raised by private subscription, corporations excluded. Two hundred dollars was subscribed in Berlin, and Mr. Brown accordingly duplicated it, and the library thus had $400.00 at its disposal. This sum was expended wholly for books, as occasion demanded, and several valuable and expensive sets of standard works were obtained, the purchase of which would have been long postponed, otherwise. It was by means of this fund that the library was able to obtain its valuable collection of works dealing with the history of the United States. Few, if any, libraries of its size have such a rich supply of material on this special subject.

Another sum of money was raised for the purchase of books, in 1895, by means of a course of eight lectures on topics connected with the history of the U. S. given by home talent. The course was well patronized and over $100 was realized therefrom. A further important acquisition was the entire library of the late Rev. John R. Horne, given by his surviving brothers and sisters, in the year 1905. This is a fine selection of books and contributes much to the usefulness of the library. Mention has been made only of the larger gifts which increased the number of books, but a great many smaller ones have been made which lack of space prevents our naming.

In January 1903, largely through the instrumentality of Mr. A. I. Lawrence, a movement was begun, to obtain funds for a new building by appeal to Mr. Andrew Carnegie. After some correspondence, Mr. Carnegie agreed to give the city $17,000 for the erection of a building suitable for library purposes, provided the city would guarantee to raise 10 per cent. of the sum annually for its maintenance. The conditions were accepted, and a building committee was appointed by the council, which committee consisted of Mayor J. B. Gilbert, chairman, Mr. W. A. Boothby, treasurer, Messrs. O. B. Brown, J. B. Noyes, E. M. Cross, and R. N. Chamberlin. Mr. A. I. Lawrence was asked to submit plans for a building, a lot on the easterly side of Main street, near High street, on the river bank, was given to the city for library purposes, by the Burgess and Berlin Mills Companies, and the present edifice was dedicated October 4, 1904, and opened for business the following day, furnished with all needed appliances of the latest and most approved patterns. With our entrance into the new building, the hours of opening were increased and the library was opened every day, excepting Sundays and legal holidays, both afternoon and evening. At this time, too, it was decided to change the charging system, from the "slip method" to what is known as the Browne system, which was a more up-to-date style.

Established in its new quarters, the library immediately began to increase its sphere of usefulness. A larger reading room was at our disposal, and also a children's room. This last was a new departure and needed special attention. Several features have been introduced in this department with success. Most of the juvenile works are on shelves around the children's room, where they are easily accessible to the little folks, and the reading tables are well supplied with juvenile magazines, picture-books, and quiet games. A "mail box" has been used very effectively in this room. The librarian writes a question on the blackboard pertaining to the reading done by the children, and the answers are written and pushed into this box. This has been a very successful feature. Picture bulletins or banners have been used to good advantage, too, the children being interested to collect pictures for them. But by far the most popular feature in this room, is the Story Hour. This was inaugurated in 1905, and has been continued every week through the winter months, since. The Hour, which is set for Saturdays, at 2.30, is well patronized, and through it, the library reaches a class of patrons at an age when they are most impressionable, and can be reached in no other way. A different story-teller is secured each week, and the stories are either famous legends that should be familiar to every one, or they deal with historic characters whose lives point a moral for those who come after, or they bring out the meaning and beauties of some famous picture, or they describe the people and customs of some foreign country. The Story Hour has become so popular, that more children have gathered for it, than our present room would accommodate, and two weeks ago, it was thought best to discontinue it until the rooms in the basement could be finished and the children's room thus be moved to larger quarters. Miss Irma Lavin was appointed the children's librarian, at the opening of the new building, and held the position till the following August. The next October, Miss Frances Boothby was appointed, and has proved herself well adapted to the work in every way.

The various literary societies were early invited to use the opportunities the library afforded for study, and some of the smaller societies have used the history alcove as the place for their regular meetings. It is hoped when the rooms in the basement are finished, one of these can be used for all the literary clubs, large and small, to meet in.

With the entrance into the new building, too, systematic research work was begun by the High School pupils as well as by pupils in the lower grades. Special effort has always been made by this library in this direction, and the co-operation on the part of the teachers has had much to do with the satisfactory results.

Distributing branch libraries, on a small scale, have been maintained; one, in what is known as the Frank Lord district, on the Milan road, another, at the police station, and more at the various schoolrooms.

In 1898, any patron was allowed to take two books at a time, provided at least one of them was a non-fiction book. The teachers and ministers, even before this time, could take, for use in their work, as many books as they needed and keep them as long as they needed, subject, however, to that book or books being called in, if wanted by some one else. For the past two years, magazines, all excepting those of the current month, have been circulated, also.

The library has a collection of nearly one thousand pictures mounted and several thousands of unmounted ones, all arranged and classified, and these are used by the schools and clubs. These are mostly Perry pictures on 7x10 mounts.

In July, 1905, Mr. W. W. Brown gave a valuable collection of pictures, busts and reliefs, to the institution, and these, together with the bust of Shakespeare given by the Twelfth Night Club, and the bust of Michelangelo given by the Alpha Art Club, and that of Dickens by the Dickens Club, fill all the wall space available for decoration in the building. A beautiful marble face clock of the celebrated Howard make, was the gift of the late Hon. H. F. Marston. Two pairs of artistic, wrought iron andirons were given by Mrs. C. S. Clark and Mrs. H. J. Brown,

From a small collection of 109 books with which the library opened in November, 1893, the library has grown, through the efforts of its friends, to one of 5,681 volumes, at the present writing. The circulation has increased rapidly each year, and has changed from 3,225 of its first year to 30,082 of the past year. The character of the reading done by the patrons, too, has changed for the better very markedly, for whereas the per cent. of fiction read during the first year of the library's existence was 96 per cent., the past year this has lowered to 68 per cent.

The policy of the institution, from the beginning has been in line with the idea that a public library should be made a people's university, where everybody is invited to study, and where the librarians consider their chief duty to be that of assisting in and encouraging work of this sort, and that it is their business to be able to lay their hands on any particular piece of information, or source of information, which may be called for. That this necessitates a wide acquaintance with the available resources of the collection, goes without saying. Our library has accomplished much among our people, and still there remains much more to be done. The results of library work are often not seen for many years after the work is done, but they are far-reaching and permanent. We feel that our policy has been the true one, and we have done no more than keep abreast of the library work of today. Our institution stands well in our state, some departments of it are said by competent authorities to be in the lead. We see no reason why, with the continued cordial support of our citizens, it should not easily maintain its position, or even go beyond it, for years to come.

In resigning my position as librarian, a position I have held since the library was opened, fourteen years ago, I wish to take this opportunity to express my cordial appreciation of the willing assistance I have had from the friends of the library, without whose aid much that has been done would have been impossible. Ideas may be excellent and valuable, but without the means to execute them, they are wholly useless, or worse than useless, since they are sources of discouragement.

Respectfully submitted,

HATTIE L. JOHNSON, Librarian.

Assessors' Report.

BERLIN, N. H., February 15, 1907.

To His Honor, the Mayor, and City Council of the City of Berlin :

In accordance with the law governing this department, we have the honor to submit herewith our annual report of the Board of Assessors, for the year ending February 15, 1907.

There is but little to remark upon in this report this year. Our particular grievance is that of the property owners failing to make returns of their inventories at the time specified by law.

When, in September, the State Board of Equalization was here, we were asked about the number of inventories we had sent out, and the number which had been returned. We were able to report five hundred inventory blanks distributed, and but forty returned.

In reply to this statement the Board instructed us to enforce the law regarding the return of inventories, and to require all taxpayers to return their inventories or to suffer the consequences.

In regard to bank stock which is claimed to be pledged, we found that a great many people are somewhat negligent, and would recommend that this matter be looked after more promptly in the future.

We found quite an increase of property over the amount reported last year, but we do not expect as great an increase during the coming year.

Respectfully submitted,

Report of Building Inspector.

BERLIN, N. H., February 15th, 1907

To His Honor, the Mayor, and City Council of the City of Berlin :

Gentlemen :—I herewith submit my report as Building Inspector.

The past year has been one of considerable activity in building construction and there were many calls at this office for building permits.

Owing to the numerous discrepancies in former building ordinances, also the repetition of various articles, it was ordered by the Council to make a new, up-to-date ordinance * * * one that would cover all the ground previously gone over and made broad enough to last a good many years. The fire district, also, was extended so that the business section is now well protected from additional danger, caused by the erection of wooden structures in the compact part of the city.

There were fifty-three permits given, all of which were, when required by the ordinance, first approved by the Council. Eleven requests were not granted or were returned with restrictions made. I have also examined the plans for all new buildings in the fire district and looked over the construction at different stages of the work. Whenever plans were made for the erection of residences, etc., I have gone over the work with the architect or contractor. As suggested by my predecessor, all these plans should be in duplicate and filed in this office for reference.

There were a few minor violations to the ordinance within the fire district, the most prominent was the shingling of the Croteau saloon block near the Theatre. The request for permit to repair the roof was in the hands of a special committee which was appointed to investigate two or three similar cases, and before their report was made the work was started. Owing to extenuating circumstances no action was taken. Other small offenses were noted and the matters are still in the hands of the City Solicitor for prosecution. The new ordinance is very plain and there is a plan of the city showing the limits of the fire district {at the City Clerk's office, so that any violations now made should be brought to account and the penalty enforced. I believe it should be the duty of the Police Department to report at once, all work in the fire district, to the City Solicitor and Building Inspector for investigation, then, if the ordinance is being violated, an injunction could be made stopping the work. The Building Inspector should also have a fixed line of duty so that inspections and investigations could be carried on in an intelligent manner. To have a uniform rate to be charged for all permits and no new buildings to be occupied until a signed acceptance be given. A small charge has been made the City for some of the duties of the Inspector that I believe should be paid by the owner or lessee, and instructions for making this charge must be first given by the City Council.

During the construction of the concrete block building on Pleasant street, inspection was made at different times and suggestions for strengthening the floors and columns were carried out. Before the building was occupied it was carefully examined and approved as being safe by a competent architect. It should again be gone over in the spring to discover any signs of settlement or dangerous cracks.

Some of the principal buildings erected during the past year are as follows:—

NAME	COST
County court house.....	$ 35,000.00
New High school	40,000.00
Burgess school.....	16,000.00
Marston school	21,000.00
The Willis (Rollaway).....	20,000.00
Bell block.....	18,000.00
International office.....	16,000.00
Steinfeld block.....	7,000.00
Jolbert building.....	1,500.00
Lessard house	8,000.00
Pingree house	5,000.00
Hannaford house (Cascades).....	3,000.00
Marcou house.....	2,200.00
Cottage 2nd ave	2,400.00
Tenement, Park street.....	3,200.00
	$198,300.00

Outside of this there has been erected:

On East side, eleven buildings	$15,000.00
Berlin Mills village, nine buildings	11,300.00
And about 26 others in the City and at the Cascades	35,000.00
	$259,600.00

A grand total of over a quarter of a million dollars.

The only building of importance to be destroyed by fire was the Hodgdon block, and work is to begin on the rebuilding of this structure at an early date.

It has been difficult to keep a detailed account of what new work is in progress or contemplation, but by enforcing the ordinance more vigorously, each year, the result, eventually, will be of great value to the welfare of the City. All new rules or regulations require time before they are thoroughly carried out and it is only by the assistance of the different builders and contractors that the result, which is the object of this department, can be finally obtained. I wish to thank all contractors and builders for the assistance which they have so freely given me.

Respectfully submitted,

EDWIN S. BRYANT, Building Inspector.

Report of City Engineer.

BERLIN, N. H., February 15, 1907.

To His Honor, the Mayor, and City Council of the City of Berlin:

Gentlemen :—I herewith submit my report as City Engineer.

The work done under this department during the past year, compares favorably with that of former years.

All work done has been by the order of the City Council or by the Street and Sewer Departments. There were quite a number of petitions for new streets presented to the City Council and referred to the Committee on Roads and Bridges, but owing to the poor condition of many of the streets already laid out, it was deemed best to accept no new streets at the present time. First Avenue, from Mount Forist to Clark street was accepted, as it had already been built and needed only to be put on record, and a plan made of its location. The extension of Pleasant street to Green Street was reported on favorably and a vote to accept same was made. However, owing to heavy expenditures, the laying out was not completed and the street was not built nor land damages paid. It is now in the hands of the Council and will no doubt come up in the spring. This extension would be of great help to the travel, now so congested on Main street, and is of much importance to the improvement of the city.

There should be a general overhauling of the street record books and all the city's streets should be permanently located, bounds placed and plans made showing details. It would be best to do this work in conjunction with the Street Department so that the side or boundary lines could be established and a grade fixed. Stone or cement bounds are the only satisfactory monuments, and it is necessary, to avoid expense, to place these before the present comers or stakes are totally lost. A great deal of time would obviously be saved private lot owners in locating their lot corners, if the street lines could all be exactly and quickly determined.

A survey has been started, locating as near as possible the old boundaries of Western Avenue from Mount Forist street to the range line, with the object of fixing a true location and a uniform width. Owing to discrepancies in the original laying outs, the former bounds are difficult to ascertain and the correct lot lines and corners cannot be permanently fixed until the street is definitely established and put on record.

Street lines have been located and grades run for new sidewalks on the following streets :—Glen Avenue from postoffice square to Glen crossing ; School street from Third street to Spring street ; Third street from School street to Main street ; Emery street from High street to Willard street ; Washington street from Emery to Hillside Avenue ; east side of Main street from court house to Mason street ; Fourth street from Main street, 250 feet.

Goebel street has been completed, although no permanent or fixed grade lines established. There are a large number of streets on the East Side that should be built and graded and then accepted by the city.

Quite a good deal of work was done in the giving of the lines for the intercepting sewer on High street. Owing to numerous sewers and water pipes found crossing the street that had to be raised or lowered it was difficult to carry on a steady grade. Also the amount of ledge along the route necessitated the use of the steam drill and that, with the blasting, made the progress of the work comparatively slow. However, the need of such a nucleus for a system of surface water drainage of the area between School street, Hillside Avenue and Portland street has long been advocated and has now been accomplished. That it will pay for itself eventually in the saving of the streets in repairs and damages by the unrestricted flow of surface water, will show that the money was well expended. It was found necessary by the size of the drainage area (about 80 acres) that a pipe of large calibre must be laid to convey the heavy spring rains and floods. The amount laid consisted of 540 feet of 30 inch pipe, 928 feet of 24 inch pipe in the main line and 44 feet of 18 inch and 120 feet of 10 inch pipe in the branches. Making a total of 1,632 feet.

There were also built five large catch basins on main line and seven smaller ones on the branches, a total of 12 receptacles for collecting the water and turning it into the sewer. The brook running from Hillside Avenue to Dead River was connected, and making a continuous flow through the pipe. In time, by building extensions up School street and Hillside Avenue with 24 and 20 inch pipe, the drainage of that whole region will be conveyed directly to the river at High street.

Short drains and culverts were placed in different parts of the city where found most necessary and the location of them will be in the report of the Street Department.

Only little was done toward the extension of the sewer system.

A short branch was built on Sweden street, between Fifth and Seventh streets, to accomodate several new houses. A short line was built up Houley street from the School street line. On State street, above Willard, an extension was made to the line already laid. At the lower end of State street a combination sewer was built, first to carry off the surface water that collects at the foot of the hill and a connection made from the 15 inch pipe of about 225 feet of 6 inch pipe to take care of house drainage.

Norwegian street, between Seventh and Eighth streets was built and graded to about its full width. This street was accepted by the town, in 1895 and no work ever done upon it. Owing to a large number of residences being built there, it was imperative to do the work at once.

Pleasant street was partially graded and built up, from the canal to Mechanic street but was not completed owing to lack of funds. It would seem as if this very important thoroughfare might be built to its full width, encroaching buildings removed and a sidewalk laid. An electric light and a hydrant are both needed on this part of the street.

Surveys were made in the settlement of the Abbott vs. City of Berlin claim, also for the McNally flowage case. Cross-sections for a graded walk were taken at the new High school lot and a graded walk planned. The location of the side lines of the Milan road was asked for by the New England Telephone Co. in order for them to intelligently place their poles near the Lord farm, and a short stretch of the highway located. It will be necessary, however, to rerun this location of 1891 from the Milan line to Berlin Mills, in the near future, as the original bounds are nearly all obliterated.

The lines between Berlin and the five bordering towns, should be respotting this spring, and the old monuments replaced. The state law requires this work to be done at least once in seven years, by arrangement with the selectmen of adjoining towns. Milan-Berlin line was rerun in 1890, Gorham-Berlin line in 1893, and all the others prior to that; therefore all the lines are over the specified time for rerunning. The sooner this work is done the less expense it will be, as the present spotting can be followed in places and renewed, connecting same where the line has been cut out or burnt over. All intersecting points at the highways should be permanently marked with a granite post, and the initials of the adjoining towns placed thereon.

Quoting from a former report: "There has been a constantly increasing demand upon this office for information concerning street lines and grades, and, as they are in many cases extremely indefinite, something to remedy this must be done. At the time many of our streets were laid out, the value of the land taken was very small, and in many cases the land damage paid was nominal, or the streets given by the owners."

Today the values are different, and each abuttor, probably honestly, claims more land than the records indicate. To save the city from trouble, possibly lawsuits, these claims must be settled and arranged, and it is much better for the city to do this work at the present time, than later, as most of the work can be done on an amiable basis now and then no buildings would be erected with a misunderstanding of the proper lines.

There is now pending for this year's vote of the citizens of Berlin a bill combining the office of Street and Sewer Commissioner with this department and making a new office namely, Superintendent of Public Works. This position, or a similar one, has often been suggested and recommended to the council, and the object of it is, to have a more systematic arrangement for the general city work on streets and sewers. An assistant superintendent or foreman would be appointed the same as at the present time, and all work in contemplation to be uniformly distributed and carried out with the idea of permanence. By having this superintendent make monthly, instead of yearly reports, all work being done, would be on a strict business basis, and the amount of work done kept within the appropriations. The action of the committees respecting petitions to be kept on file and their accepted reports to be carried out as the council decides. If this bill becomes a part of the city charter, the duties of the superintendent would be laid down by the city council, and would come under their control. By having an experienced man, and one qualified to hold this office made responsible for the careful expenditure of the appropriations under his control, it is believed that more work would be accomplished and better results obtained.

Respectfully submitted,

EDWIN S. BRYANT, City Engineer.

Sewer Department.

REPORT OF SEWER COMMISSIONER.

BERLIN, N. H., February 15th, 1907.

To His Honor, the Mayor, and City Council of the City of Berlin :

Gentlemen:—I have the honor to submit to you the annual report of this department for the past year.

The principal work done under the appropriation for the sewer department was the building of the intercepting sewer on High street. Work was begun the first of September, and carried along into cold weather. There was much more ledge encountered than was first looked for, and owing to the large sized pipe to be laid, the ditches had to be dug both deep and wide. The average depth of the drain was $6\frac{1}{2}$ feet, and the width from four to six feet. Delays were also caused in crossing under the tracks of the Berlin Street Railway and the Grand Trunk, also in avoiding water and sewer pipes which were met with.

The total length of the main line was 1468 feet of thirty and twenty-four inch pipe, and in cross lines and branches 160 feet of eighteen and ten inch pipe. Twelve catch basins and man holes were built, each provided with a large cast iron inlet grating. The total cost was $4,850.12. Of this $2,000, was expended for the pipe and man holes. The original plan was to run from the river to Emery street this year, and extend same to Hillside Avenue in the future, but after beginning the work it was decided to build the whole thing. This drain has been recommended by each succeeding Sewer or Street Commissioner for many years, and it was voted by the Council last spring to do the work. A more extended description of the value of this sewer is to be found under the report of the Engineer's Department.

Other sewers to be built were the extension of the Sweden street sewer, a branch to the Johnson sewer on Norwegian street, and extensions to sewers on School and Houley streets, and to the main sewer in the Narrows. On State street, at the lower end, a combination sewer was laid of fifteen inch pipe with a branch of six inch pipe, and a catch basin built. This sewer will convey into Dead River the large amount of surface drainage which collects each spring in that vicinity and formerly had no means of egress. On the upper end of State street, above Willard, there was an extension made of about one hundred and fifty feet. Connections were also made with the new High school building, and the Marston school to the city's main on Willard street.

There has been less than the usual amount of repairs, although some work had to be done. So far this winter there has been but a few cases of freezing, and these have been fixed without much expense.

There have been forty-two buildings connected with the mains during the past year. No new flush tanks or man holes have been built to the old system; but there should be, however, some work done on those now existing. They should all be put in good order and built up to the grade of the street, and a record made of the condition and working order of each flush tank.

In the future it is essential that care be taken to build the sewers deep enough to connect all houses on the street, so that they may be connected from the cellars. The greater fall that can be obtained from the house to the sewer the more satisfactory the drainage. Of course in some places where the land slopes rapidly away on one side it may not be possible to do this, but it seems preferable to build as low and as deep as circumstances will warrant.

The new sewers that have been laid have all been measured and located in the sewer book and may be used for reference in re-locating a sewer at any time.

In closing I wish to respectfully tender my acknowledgements to the Mayor and the various members of the City Council for the support they have given me.

Respectfully submitted,

O. W. FERNALD, Sewer Commissioner.

Department of Highways.

REPORT OF HIGHWAY COMMISSIONER.

BERLIN, N. H., February 15, 1907.

To His Honor, the Mayor, and City Council of the City of Berlin:

Gentlemen:—I have the honor to submit to you the annual report of the Street Department.

In submitting my report, I will touch but briefly on the amount of work done during the past year.

The general repair work and grading of the principal streets of the city has been carried on in a similar manner as in former years, and, by using crushed rock and the steam roller, where possible, most of the work has been done in a permanent manner. All ledges have been excavated, and the stone hauled to the crusher, and there made suitable for use on the streets. Over two thousand loads have been crushed and placed; most of the work being done on Main street and Glen Avenue.

Goebel street on the East Side has been completed, widened to its full width, and macadamized its whole length. This was quite a costly street to build as there was considerable ledge to be taken out, and a large number of deep fills to be made.

Strafford street, which was left unfinished last year, has also been completed and surfaced with crushed stone; ditches dug, and the street put in good shape.

In the Berlin Mills village there was more than the usual amount of work called for the past season. Quite a good deal of work has been done on a good many of the streets. Norwegian street, between Seventh and Eighth streets, was built and a good deal of labor spent blasting the ledges, making fills, and laying surface drains. This street has been laid out and owned by the city for a long time, and each year this department has been called upon to fix it up. Until recently, however, there has been but little building there, so the work has been put off. Owing to several new houses in course of erection, it was found necessary to build the street last spring, and it was widened, graded, and put in first class condition. There is a portion of the street, near the corner of Seventh street, that needs to have the grade lowered at some future time, which will add to the improvements already made. This street was eight hundred feet long and fifty feet in width. Total amount expended, $700.

New culverts were laid on Sweden street, Seventh street, Eighth street, and Denmark street; also on Main street, near the pumping station.

Fourth street, Berlin Mills, was repaired, and considerable ledge excavated, the stone from which was crushed and used in macadamizing.

Pleasant street extension was partially macadamized last year. Owing to the grade of the street having to be raised from two to three feet, it took a large number of stone to do the work that was done. As this is one of the coming streets of the city, it was deemed best to do the work with the idea of permanence, and for future development. About 500 feet was built at a cost of a little over $1600.00. The bridge over the canal will have to be raised and widened, and the street finished to Mason street the coming year. The two buildings near the Rollaway extend into the street over eight feet, and as land damages have been paid and accepted there is no reason for not taking in the full width of the street laid out.

A great improvement was made on the Glen road from Post Office square to Glen crossing. The street was widened and filled, and sidewalk curbing set on both sides. The tracks of the Berlin Street Railway were raised, and three courses of crushed rock placed and compactly rolled with the steam roller, making in all a good piece of macadam road. From the Glen crossing to the Gorham line more or less work was done as was found needed. Parts of the road were widened by taking out ledge and filling in low places. Most of the way was re-surfaced and rounded to make good drainage. That part of the road in danger of flowage from the river was raised and made safe. The material and teams for the work being given by the Berlin Mills Company.

Over two miles of practically new road building was done at the Cascades, and a crew of men were at work there over two months. Western avenue, from below Maguire's to the Gorham line, had considerable work done, culverts placed, and ditches laid. Also Williams street, Cascade street, Corbin street, and Wentworth and Gordon avenues were graded and built; these streets were accepted by the city in 1905, and no work of any account has ever been done upon them. Only such part of the streets had been cleared make it possible for teams to get back and forth, and they were in a very dangerous and bad condition. It seems to me to be poor policy for the city to accept any more new streets until we have money enough to have the streets now owned put in better shape, and it does not seem fair for such parts of the city that are already built up to have no sidewalks, or even safe streets for driving over. If this policy of accepting new streets, without a thorough investigation of the needs for the same, is carried along it will be impossible to ever catch up with the work.

Third street and School street were largely benefited by having considerable work done upon them; also a new sidewalk built on the westerly side. There is considerable travel on these streets, and School street is much too narrow. Owing to discrepancies in the lay-out of the street, and poor records, it is impossible for the city to get possession of the needed width. There should be a new laying-out, and, if necessary land damages paid, in order to widen the worst places and do a permanent job there. Western avenue at this end, is another street where the records are faulty, and the bounds must first be determined before much work can be done. I understand, however, that this is now in the hands of the City Engineer, with instructions to locate existing property lines with the idea of establishing a fixed location.

All suburban roads have had more than the usual amount of repairs. All culverts worked on were laid with large caliber pipe and made solid. The West Milan road was in bad shape, and it took quite a lot of money to fix it up. A good deal of work was done with the road machine, ditches cleaned out, and hollows filled in. The other Milan roads also needed more work done upon them than the appropriation warranted, and it is hoped that more permanent building can be carried on in the future. The town of Milan last year accepted state aid for their road building, and put the money into the "River Road," beginning at the Berlin line and extending toward the town. By the city's making a small special appropriation, to be used in building a part of this road, permanently and by contract, we could get state aid by making application for same, and, we could carry on the work, toward Berlin, the work already begun by the town of Milan.

During the past year there has been the usual number of sidewalks built, crossings laid, and curbings set. Some of the most prominent are Third and School streets, twelve hundred and fifty (1250) feet curbing and sidewalk: Emery street, 450 feet; Mechanic street, 80 feet; Pleasant street, 100 feet; Mason street, 125; Upper Main street, 200 feet.

Curbs set and crushed stone or gravel walks were built on Glen avenue, Washington street, and Prospect street. Main street, in front of the Albert Theatre, was widened and a sidewalk built. Many parts of the present sidewalk along Main street were raised and re-covered.

Total number of yards of new sidewalk, 1718 yards.

Total number of yards of new crossing, 578 yards.

Re-covering and repairs, 1249 yards.

Length of curbs set, granite and concrete, 2780 feet.

The above data is given merely to show where the principal work has been accomplished. It would be difficult to give in detail where performed. All streets should be dealt with according to their importance and the work done on each apportioned accordingly. The repairing of all streets about the city should be systematically attended to each year, and if worn places are repaired as soon as they are noticed or reported the expense can be kept down.

Main street should be paved, beginning at Post Office square. This has been called to the Council's attention for some time. The existing sewers should also be re-laid and made larger as fast as the work progresses, and the whole done with a view to utility as well as economy. High street needs macadamizing from Pleasant street up; also Pleasant street, Green street, and Exchange street.

On the east side there is a large demand for work to be done, as some of the streets are in bad shape.

In closing I wish to say that the amount of work required in this department is increasing every year, and more money must be raised for our streets and sidewalks. If some permanent work was accomplished each year in a progressive manner, it would eventually produce the good streets which are the object of this department. No one thing is more noticeable to visitors and tourists than well-built streets. It is hardly possible to say too much in their favor. They benefit the public and add wealth and taxable value to the city. A permanent system for keeping the streets in repair, as well as in construction, should be decided upon, which will make them models of excellence and a pride to every citizen. I also commend to your consideration the necessity of devising some more equitable plan for the distribution of this department's appropriations.

In conclusion I desire to extend my thanks to His Honor, the Mayor, and to the Committee on Roads and Bridges, for their courteous and considerate treatment in their dealings with matters relating to this department.

Respectfully submitted,

O. W. FERNALD, Street Commissioner.

Report of Board of Education.

BERLIN, N. H., February 15, 1907.

To His Honor, the Mayor, and City Council of the City of Berlin :

The Board of Education of the City of Berlin submit the following as their twenty-second annual report of the work and conditions of the department under their direction.

CALENDER FOR THE YEAR 1907-8.

*Winter term closes Friday, March 22, 1907.

Spring term commences Tuesday, April 2, 1907.

Spring term closes Friday, June 14, 1907.

Fall term commences Tuesday, September 3, 1907.

Fall term closes Friday, December 20, 1907.

Winter term commences January 6, 1908.

*The Marston school will not take a recess at Easter, but will make up the time lost at the opening of the fall term.

General Condition.

At the opening of the fiscal year in February, 1906, the school department found itself with the high school located in the central fire station, with Prof. A. S. Todd as principal for the remainder of the school year. Owing to the loss of the Marston school building, and most of its contents by fire on February 2, five rooms had to be procured, in various parts of the city to accommodate the first five grades, at a rental of $120.00 per month. The sixth and seventh grades were located in the Cole school building. These rooms were used for the balance of the school year. The location of these rooms and the surroundings were far from ideal for school work. The teachers in these rooms laboring under difficulty accomplished nearly their usual amount of good work. The work in the other grade schools was found to be in a very satisfactory condition.

At the opening of the school year in September, the high school was begun in the new high school building, which was nearly completed, under the instruction of Prof. Fred S. Libbey as principal. This school is now well organized and is doing very satisfactory work. The Marston school, a modern up-to-date building, having been rebuilt during the summer, was completed so as to open school Sept. 17,

In December, 1906, Mr. H. C. Morrison, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, was invited by your school board to visit and inspect our schools, which he did. We publish his report to the school board dated December 28, 1906.

CONCORD, N. H., December 28, 1906.

John A. Burbank, Esq.

Chairman of the School Board,
Berlin, N. H.

Dear Sir: In response to the request of your board, I visited Berlin and inspected your school system on December 18, 19 and 20 and beg to submit the report which follows:

High School.

On Tuesday, December 18, I spent the entire day at the high school, and saw some of the work in every department. I also met the faculty and pupils at the opening exercises of Wednesday, December 19.

Building.

I congratulate the Board upon the possession of a building well adapted to the needs of the school. The building seemed to me to be fulfilling its present function well, except for the heating and ventilating, both of which were very poor on the day of my visit and tended to show that the heating and ventilating plant is at present ineffective.

I wish to point out to the board particularly that the new building affords an excellent opportunity for the working out of an artistic scheme of decoration. The schoolroom decoration in a modern building may be a source of great educational value or it may be destructive of all developing taste on the part of the pupils. I suggest that the board would do well to take such action as will safeguard the building from promiscuous and unregulated giving, which often brings together pictures which are utterly incongruous to each other, in themselves, and to their surroundings.

Program of Study.

The program of study approved by this department at the beginning of the school year seems to be working to the satisfaction of the State Superintendent in most respects.

Discipline.

During the day which I spent in the school, I saw nothing whatever which would be symptomatic of poor discipline. I consider the school to be in an excellent state of discipline.

Work.

I see few things to criticise, either in the teaching or in the learning which will not work themselves out as the months go on by a natural process of growth. Teachers were generally doing strong and vigorous work and in every class which I visited the pupils were manifesting an interest in their work and making an evident effort to master the same. I point out that it will require an unremitting vigilance, especially on the parts of the principal and superintendent, to hold the pupils in their present pathway of growth. Being held there, I think they will profit more and more from the school as the months go by.

The Mechanic Arts Curriculum.

The Mechanic Arts Curriculum gives the fullest evidence that its place in the school is justified. In fact I venture to attribute no small part of the present excellence of the school to the effect of this work in discovering to otherwise unruly and turbulent boys their powers. I approve the administrative adjustments which have been made in connection with its introduction in the school, and shall anticipate with much pleasure watching it work out during the four years, at the end of which time, and scarcely before, it should have reached its full growth.

The Commercial Curriculum.

The Commercial Curriculum is also laid out along strong and fully educational lines. As this curriculum develops through the four years, it is destined to yield values which will be at the same time most practical and profoundly educational.

Both the Mechanic Arts and the Commercial Curricula represent a movement in education of profound significance, both to the city and to the state. As laid out in your school, they represent a frank acceptance that the boy and girl who are to work with their hands, or, at any rate, who are not going to college must not be put off with an inferior education under the thin guise of "practical subjects." If these two curricula are fully developed as they are now planned and approved, pupils completing either curriculum will have an education which will be in the highest sense practical and as thoroughgoing as the graduate of any curriculum in any school in the state.

The Spirit of the School.

Always an intangible thing, it is at the same time always the most significant thing about the school. It reveals itself in the classroom, in the corridors, at morning exercises, on the street, in a thousand different ways. The spirit of the school as it now is is thoroughly good. With few or no exceptions, the pupils gave evidence of being in school for work and not for play. They were unusually respectful to teachers and to visitors. They showed the spirit of thoroughness in their work, and I saw no evidence of unwillingness to undertake hard work. In a word, the school is a self-respecting school.

Elementary Schools.

On Wednesday and Thursday, December 19 and 20, I visited the Marston, Burgess, and Brown schools, reaching every teacher. I was able in that time also to inspect work in geography, arithmetic, reading, English, and penmanship.

Buildings.

The Marston and Burgess buildings are very nearly all that could be desired as schoolhouses. They are well adapted for their purposes, a pedagogical and a hygienic standpoint. The heating and ventilation, especially, as I saw them are wellnigh perfect.

I wish to point out that the Marston and Burgess buildings are susceptible of the same excellent decorative effects as the high school, and a well considered movement to provide for such should be inaugurated at the earliest opportunity. I re-emphasize the principle that this is a matter which can not all be done at once; that it should be done without public expense.

Work.

Geography seems to have developed along the lines noted last year. Work in this subject, both for information concerning the countries studied and for mental development which right teaching of the subject can produce is remarkable.

The work in arithmetic also stands its test well. In point of mental capacity for solution of problems and quick grasp upon the foundation principles, work is very much above the average.

English as judged here and there throughout the two eight grade systems, and especially as determined by tests taken up in Marston VI, VII, and VIII shows a great improvement over similar work which was criticised in my report of last year. The points to which I then called attention seem to have been all cleared up, and, if the Marston papers above referred to are a fair specimen,—and I consider them such,—the results as now attained leave little to be expected. I wish to point out, however, in connection with English that I find the actual teaching of spelling in a very negligent condition, not well taught by teachers and done in a very slovenly fashion by pupils. This condition, if not at once corrected, will inevitably react upon the more important composition work, and again lower the pupils' general command over the mother tongue.

Reading is not what it should be. It shows an inclination to wordiness and lack of expression and the enunciation is not good. This is also characteristic of the high school.

I was unable directly to judge work in history. Indirectly from accumulations from previous work and from the general bearings upon geography, I judge the work to be very good. Handwriting in the elementary schools is very poor, and I think has not sufficient attention from superintendent and teachers. There is little real educational value in handwriting. Handwriting is a tool for other subjects rather than an educational subject itself, but it is a necessary tool, and such educational value as there is in it comes largely from the ability to do things well. What is worth doing at all is usually worth doing well, and this is especially true of this subject. Slovenly or careless writing in pupils may very easily lead to similar qualities in other subjects. I need not point out the economic importance to the average boy or girl of writing a clear, rapid, legible hand.

I cannot too strongly express my pleasure and satisfaction in the Sloyd. Much of all that is admirable in your schools seems to me to depend upon the power developed by this subject and by its relation with geography, arithmetic, etc. It is especially gratifying to know that the manual side of the boy's mental and physical being receives its proper educational emphasis in both the elementary and in the high school. I point out that the development of this subject into the lower grades in correlation with subjects already existing there would yield profitable values and would react in the direction of improvement of the values to be derived from other school subjects.

The quality which most needs development in the elementary schools is the literary and artistic side of education. The reading throughout the entire elementary school should be shaped in such a way as to develop in children taste for the best reading, understanding how to read, and knowledge where the best reading is to be found. I have already referred in connection with schoolroom decoration to another side of the esthetics of school life,—the cultivation of good taste. I ought to suggest in addition that I think the drawing, as it occurs in elementary schools, is already accomplishing a great deal, and perhaps in the best way, in this direction.

I observe that the teaching in the elementary schools is generally closer, more thoroughgoing, and with a better rounding up in the principles taught than it appeared to be last year.

The most significant thing about the elementary schools is the spirit of interest, attention, and pleasure manifested by the children. It has long been felt that the supreme end of education of every sort and kind is the development of power. I have seldom seen schools which would test up to realization of this end to a higher degree than these. There are some directions in which the schools might be improved,—I have pointed out some,—but whatever the schools are doing for the children seems to be yielding this intensely moral quality, power and capacity.

I conclude my inspection with the feeling strong upon me that your schools are a credit to the state.

Respectfully submitted,

H. C. MORRISON.

Graduation, 1906.

In the Spring the Senior class decided to adopt the plan of taking a trip to some historic city, as is the custom of many other schools, instead of holding the usual graduating exercises. Early in May, Mr. Todd, on behalf of the graduating class of 1906, requested of the School Board that they allow this substitution to be made; after some discussion on the part of the Board, the request was granted. Owing to the difficulty in raising sufficient funds to cover the cost of the trip this plan was given up. In June the graduating class decided to have Class Day exercises and plant class trees, in which all classes were to take part. This program was carried out during the afternoon of June 26th. At the close of the exercises, they repaired to the assembly hall of the new building where the diplomas were presented by the chairman of the School Board. It was suggested to the class of 1906, and following classes, that they present the school with a class picture which they did. They also presented a picture of the "Roman Colliseum." The class of 1906 was recorded upon the records of the School Board as the first to graduate from the new High school building.

The members of the class and the course which each has taken were as follows:

Classical Course: Ethel Elizabeth Goss and Alex Levine. Latin Scientific: Mary Ella O'Connor. General Course: Mary Teresa Laffin and Herbert Brown Pingree. Business Course: Russ Derry Burbank and Norman Jacobs. Class colors, green and white.

Financial.

The expenditures for the past financial year have been greatly increased over those of previous years by the loss of the Marston building by fire on February 2nd, consuming all our school supplies and books not in use. These have been replaced this year at an expense of $1000.00. Seats and other furniture have been bought for the Marston school, a new eight room building. The Commercial department of the High school which now consists of three rooms has been furnished as follows: Study room seating 42 pupils, bookkeeping room 22, and the typewriting room containing 12 typewriters, 9 of which are new. The assembly hall has been furnished with folding seats to accommodate 200 pupils. The Mechanic Arts equipment consisting of a motor, shafting, lathes, work benches, tools and other supplies costing nearly $800. The bill for car tickets from 1903-1905 and other supplies amounted to nearly $800 more. These bills of 1905 have been paid. The insurance on the Marston and High school buildings and contents, fuel for the High school building, also extra janitor services, rent and other extra expenses were paid. Our total outlay has been $29,969.77 an increase of $5,734.89 over last year. In order to carry out the plans of the Board, an appropriation of $25,000 should be available for this work the coming year.

The past year the average cost per pupil has been $25.17. This includes, however, the cost of all books purchased to replace those lost in the Marston fire.

Cost of Maintaining Schools.

The following figures from the Report of the Department of Public Instruction show that Berlin has little to complain of in the way of the expense of maintaining its public schools.

	Teachers' Salaries Per Month	Expense per Pupil	Rate of Taxation for School Pur- poses	General Tax Rate for 5 Years	Percent. of Whole Tax Raised that is devoted to Schools

Average, 11 Cities..	45 81	26 20	5 10	20 80	24 ½

From these figures it appears that six out of eleven cities pay higher salaries; in six the cost per pupil is greater; eight have a higher tax rate for school purposes. It also appears that Berlin is devoting a smaller part of the total money raised by taxes to school uses than any other city.

Out of every $100 collected in Berlin $17 goes to support the public schools, while in Concord $39 out of $100 is thus appropriated. It is evident from these figures that our school system is less expensive relatively than that of any other city in the state.

Suggestion.

In closing our report we wish to thank the council for the interest taken in our department, by their committee of public instruction in visiting our schools and in cheerfully furnishing financial aid.

We wish to express our appreciation of Superintendent Whitecher's work as commended by our State Superintendent of Public Instruction. There seems to be perfect harmony in all our schools between superintendent, teachers, and pupils.

Superintendent's Report.

BERLIN, N. H., February 15, 1907.

To the Board of Education.

Gentlemen:—I herewith submit the third annual report of this office and beg leave to direct your attention to the general condition of the public schools after three full years of the work of reorganization have elapsed. At the commencement of my work here in January, 1904, I expressed to you a definite purpose to make the schools of Berlin the equal of any in the state and further stated that I believed three years ample time in which to accomplish this result; the three years have now passed and it is fair to all concerned to ask if the results promised have been secured.

I am fortunate in being able to present competent evidence from an entirely impartial source, namely, the two reports of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, who both in December, 1905, and December, 1906, made a thorough inspection of our entire system and has reported to you very fully the results of this inspection,

These reports are of very great value not only as indicating what has already been accomplished but also as showing the weaknesses that most need our attention. Briefly stated these two reports warrant such conclusions as may be arrived at from the following quotations:

Arithmetic:—The work is "very much above the average." (Second report.)

Geography:—The work "both for information concerning the countries studied and for mental development which right teaching of the subject can produce is remarkable." (Second report.)

History:—"A goodly proportion of eighth grade pupils show a thoroughness and insight uncommon among even college students of a generation ago or even less." (First report.)

Drawing:—"In the lower grades is excellent." (First report.)

Sloyd:—"Much of all that is admirable in your schools seems to me to depend upon the power developed by this subject." (Second report.)

English:—"The results as now attained leave little [improvement] to be expected." (Second report.)

Then remain three subjects that require immediate and marked improvement, namely :—

Reading:—"Shows an inclination to wordiness and lack of expression." (Second report.)

Spelling:—"I find not well taught by teachers and done in a very slovenly fashion by pupils." (Second report.)

Handwriting:—"In the elementary schools is very poor." (Second report.)

These opinions are the well considered judgments of an educational expert who is thoroughly familiar with the schools of New Hampshire and I submit are sufficiently specific to justify the assertion that the promises made three years ago have been essentially redeemed. This, however, is by no means the end of the work; it is in fact only the first step.

I predict that with the same progressiveness on the part of the Board of Education, and equally generous and cordial support on the part of the Mayor and City Council as well as by the rank and file of our citizens, in two years more Berlin's school system from grade one to and through the high school will be the equal of any system in New England, when measured by the true standard which regards "teaching as the art of training pupils to think" and defines education as the process which fits the child for "right living."

The High School.

In no part of our school system has the last year witnessed such complete and gratifying change as in the high school, and I wish to express my appreciation of the spirit of co-operation on the part of principal, teachers and pupils which has made this school year one of the pleasantest in my experience. In this cordial relationship which makes the entire school system a unit, I find complete proof of what I have always believed to be a fact, namely, that the public school system of any community should be continuous from the kindergarten to the college and not broken by that irrational and highly injurious notion which establishes an impassable gulf between the grades and the high school.

I am transmitting herewith the report of Prin. F. S. Libbey which more fully covers this part of the system.

Music.

The resignation of Mrs. J. D. Holt left the position of music teacher vacant. I am pleased to inform you that Miss Alice Persons of Cambridge, who was elected to this position, is taking up the work in a highly satisfactory manner.

The Plan.

It is impossible to reorganize and systematize the schools of any community without exciting a suspicion in the minds of many who are not familiar with educational progress, that something revolutionary is being done. This suspicion usually finds expression in the idea that someone is experimenting with an unproven plan.

I wish to point out that such an idea is usually erroneous and that a very limited knowledge of educational development would prove conclusively that not a single means or method is employed in Berlin that was not well established in principle years before any of us now living were born. The nature study movement was clearly outlined within twenty-five years of the time when Columbus sailed westward into the "sea of darkness." Manual training was an established fact at the time of the American revolution.

Whether we realize it or not the fact remains that all that is best in American education traces back to Germany and Schlosser, the German historian, writing of Basedow whose schools were established in 1774, says "he [Basedow] succeeded in effecting a complete change in the whole nature of education and instruction in Germany."

Concerning this reform Monroe says:—

"The fundamental idea of the reform was education according to nature" which was interpreted to mean that children should be treated as children, not as adults; that languages should be taught by conversational methods, not through grammatical studies; that physical exercise and games should find a place in the child's education; * * * that each child should be taught a handicraft, for reasons partly educational, partly social; * * * that instruction should be connected with realities rather than with words."

It would be strange indeed if the means and methods of education remained stationary when all of the conditions of living have changed. It is a different child that we are dealing with and it is a different world in which he is to live, it must require changed aims, means and methods to accomplish his education, hence while the principles of right training must at all times recognize the inheritance and environment of the child as well as his probable life work yet there must be freedom to adapt and adjust the means employed.

The objections that were urged against Rabelais in 1520, and Basedow and Rousseau two hundred and fifty years later, were also hurled at Horace Mann in 1840 and Col. Parker fifty years later, and one has but to read the news of the day to recognize the same threadbare argument, moss-covered with age, aimed at Cooley, Maxwell and a score of others who are fighting for an education suited to the needs of pupils in this day and generation. It is fair to assume that five hundred years hence there will be the same cry of "fad" whenever there is an advance in the educational field.

However, "the world does move" and the schools of today are as superior to those of fifty years ago as are the railroad trains, telegraph and telephone superior to the means of travel and communication of that time.

It is upon the bed rock of educational principles well established and long employed, such as were transplanted in American soil by Horace Mann and our own New Hampshire educator, Col. Francis W. Parker, that the school system of Berlin is being built.

The Aim.

Any well founded scheme of education must recognize three chief factors, first the generally accepted belief as to the meaning of education, second the traditions of the past, and third the insight of a few men of genius who, turning, their thoughts towards the subject of education, become leaders.

The first and third are the progressive elements while the second is the conservative factor which acts as a check or control on the other two.

If the second factor is over valued the schools remain stationary and become unsuited to the times, if the first and third are over valued the schools get too far in advance of public sentiment thereby losing in efficiency. A wise adjustment makes use of all that is best in the new and holds to the best that is old.

The definition of education has changed from the idea of self-preservation in primitive man to that of Spencer namely "education fits for right living" and through all the gradations has included the idea in some essential way that "education is adjustment to surroundings."

There has been and will continue to be differences of opinion as to the meaning of the word "surroundings"; these differences give rise on the one hand to that narrow utilitarianism so often masquerading under the catchy word "practical" and on the other to the equally narrow notion that "mental discipline" is all in all.

The former view finds expression in short courses, trade schools, correspondence courses, etc., all valuable when nothing better can be had, the latter tends toward the results Montaigne so forceably set forth over three centuries ago:—

"If the mind be not better disposed by education, if the judgment be not better settled, I had much rather my scholar had spent his time at tennis * * * Do but observe him when he comes back from school, after fifteen or sixteen years that he has been there; there is nothing so awkward * * * so unfit for company and employment; and all that you shall find he has got is that his Latin and Greek have only made him a greater and more conceited coxcomb than when he went from home."

That we have had long years of the reign of the "mental discipline" idea is well known and that it largely prevails today is indicated by Munroe who in his History of Education, speaking of American schools says " * * * the disciplinary idea is held quite widely even yet and controls much of school work."

The view of our most advanced thinkers is that we should combine the idea of utility with that of discipline. This view holds that the pupil who at the drawing table works out in visible form the plan of some article to him useful, who strives to make it of pleasing form, and who then with saw and plane, lathe, chisel, hammer and anvil produces his idea in wood, leather, copper or tin, trains judgment, exercises discrimination; develops skill through the exercise of mind, body and soul quite as much as his school-mate who translates the classics or delves in the records of the past for the origin of a word.

Because nature is beautiful and true and moreover present to the senses is reason enough for the tendency toward nature study, and the very fact that every normal child, youth or adult finds exquisite delight in constructing articles of beauty and use is precisely why manual training in all its forms, from the first awkward use of the scissors in the first grade to the use of the milling machine and engine lathe in the high school, is a rational means towards that education which Spencer had in mind and which Eliot and Hall, Harris and many others are untiringly working for.

In Berlin all our plans are dominated by one central thought namely: that "the supreme end of education is the development of power and capacity." Capacity for clear thinking and power to execute and adapt.

It is also part of our creed that interest in the school room, like oil on machinery decreases friction and increases the output. I know that some have held that interest tends to weaken the will but I have never seen as much or as hard work accomplished when interest is lacking as when it is present and to any who desire an object lesson in this line I respectfully suggest that they visit the Sloyd room or the Mechanic Arts shop and there observe the attention, the eager activity, the thoughtful glowing faces of the pupils as with knife, saw, plane, and chisel, they work out their ideas. It is here that many pupils who are of the constructive, motor type find opportunity for equalling or excelling those of greater intellectual power thus equalizing the possibilities for deriving good from the school course.

Another central idea running all through the schools is that of cultivating the spirit of investigation. Out-door excursions in geography and nature study, visits to simple and complex industries, correspondence with remote parts of the world, collecting samples relating to the industry and topics studied, collecting pictures of places, processes and products, and hunting out facts of local history, at every point when it seems possible. Our pupils from the third grade up systematically investigate and record.

The higher grades have received letters from South America, Portugal, Ireland, Formosa and many other places and each one of these is a part of the instruction that is to develop clear ideas of places and things. Here is mental discipline through useful information and what is most important it is acquired through self-activity thereby encouraging self-reliance and engendering self-respect.

To make pupils feel that they are living a real life in the school room is a result worth striving for and this is exactly what results when classes are investigating, corresponding and collecting.

The Means.

With the increased and increasing efficiency of the schools comes the hardest problem of all, that of securing and retaining teachers equal to the growing demands. The world is full of teachers who can "keep school and hear lessons" and when a system of schools is of the type where this suffices there is no scarcity of candidates no matter how low the salary but when the demand is for "teaching that trains pupils to think" the supply is limited and growing more so year by year.

In Berlin the work of the teacher is growing harder year by year and every advance in the standard attained makes the next advance increasingly difficult.

There are just two ways of increasing the efficiency of the teaching force, one by improvements from within, the other by additions from without, the former is the desirable way, the latter often the necessary one, but whether by one or the other or by both combined, the result must be accomplished.

The question of salary is to a considerable extent the determining factor here as elsewhere. It is useless, however, to ignore the fact that any given salary, in a place so remote from the great centers of population, will fail to secure and hold as high a grade of teachers as it will in places nearer to these centers, or more specifically, a $500 salary in Concord or Manchester or Portsmouth is more attractive than the same sum in Berlin. Under the present salary schedule it is necessary to fill most vacancies with inexperienced teachers trusting to a fortunate selection that shall give individuals who will quickly adapt themselves to the demands. Thus far we have been remarkably fortunate in this respect but it is almost impossible to perfect the plans already outlined unless we can hold those teachers who show the highest qualifications, and while increased salaries is not certain to do this the present salaries are certain not to do it. These evident conditions here lead to the recommendation and adoption of the Merit-Effort Salary Schedule.

This schedule which goes into full effect in June, 1907, is based on the seemingly equitable plan of rewarding teachers for both merit, as shown in results, and effort as evinced by their willingness to continue their professional study.

Another feature of no small significance is the protective feature which makes it unnecessary for teachers in the highest classification to come up annually for re-election.

On the side of merit the superintendent is required to report to the Board in writing at the end of each term the ratings of each teacher as determined by monthly markings. There are three classes A, B, and C, and these are determined according to the following standards:—

Results in school work.....	40
Discipline, in rooms, halls and yard.....	25
Orderliness, in rooms, care of books, etc.,.....	15
Attitude towards pupils, teachers and public	10
Conduct, general.....	10
	100

A teacher whose combined monthly marks equals 80 to 100 is in class A, 65 to 80 is in class B, below 65 is class C.

At the end of the term any teacher may know her rating by applying to the superintendent in person.

The "effort" side of the plan is embodied in five teachers reading and study courses. The first of these deals with sense training and perception. The second with apperception, the third with interest, the fourth with habit and memory and the fifth with will. These courses are optional but must be satisfactorily passed to get the maximum of salary.

A teacher just beginning may take two courses the first year and thereafter one course a year as a maximum.

The courses may be accompanied by monthly conferences at the discretion of the superintendent, but the test of successful work in each is to be determined by a thesis which is to be examined by a competent, disinterested person.

The initial salary for inexperienced teachers with normal training is $380.00 a year and thereafter each reading course passed adds $25.00 to this. The teacher whose final mark is A adds another $25. also.

Teachers in class A are not subject to re-election but notice of this standing is a guarantee that a position is assured, it only remains for them to accept the same in writing within ten days of the receipt of the notice. Failure to accept within this time will be regarded as proof that the teacher does not desire to remain. Teachers in class B must come up for re-election and may or may not be continued, at the option of the Board.

Teachers in class C are not candidates at all and the notice of this standing at the end of the year is a notification that their services will not be required after the end of the year.

Any teacher's salary for any year is readily determined; each "Reading and Study Course" passed counts $25.00 and an A rank counts $25.00 more. The maximum salaries under this schedule are as follows:—

		Teacher's standing.
1st year	$380.00	Beginner
2nd "	455.00	2 courses and A.
3rd "	480.00	3 " " A.
4th "	505.00	4 " " A.
5th "	530.00	5 " " A.

Principalships add according to the following:—

A 4 room building adds $25.00 per year.

A 6 " " " 50.00 " "

An 8 " " " 75.00 " "

It is expected that each teacher taking these courses will devote at least four hours a week to thoughtful reading, study and writing along the lines suggested.

By the kindness of the library authorities a well selected list of psychological and pedagogical books is available to the teachers as a reference library and a special table has been provided by the librarian for their use.

There has been commendable zeal shown by our teachers in availing themselves of the opportunity for insuring a substantial increase in possible salaries for next year this increase amounting to about 15 per cent. Eighteen teachers out of twenty-two have met at the monthly conferences for the first course and eighteen are now at work on the second course.

There can be no doubt as to the advantage to the schools resulting from this work. It keeps the principles upon which good teaching depends fresh in mind, it affords opportunities for frequent suggestion as to the classroom application of these principles and it tends to develop a feeling of pride in the purely professional side of the teachers calling which must be beneficial.

Teachers' Meetings.

During the year I have held seventy-four teachers' meetings, eight of these have been devoted to the Teachers' Reading and Study courses, fifteen have been general meetings at which all of the teachers have been present. The remainder have been grade meetings when definite discussions of everyday work have helped to clear up some of the many problems that confront the teacher. In most cases teachers have brought the pupils' work to the meetings and we have discussed the strong and weak points as the papers have been examined.

Outlines.

Outlines of work by subjects are being made more and more definite year by year.

At present a full and complete outline of the course in arithmetic is in the hands of every teacher. The result is that the teaching in this subject is uniform throughout the schools.

The geography outlines are practically completed but are not in convenient printed form. Manuscript copies are provided for each grade.

The history course is well organized except in the fifth and sixth grades. In these two grades there is a lack of text books suited to the needs of pupils of this age and so a more or less serious break appears.

Language in its written form finds abundant use in connection with all the other subjects; letter writing, recording the results of observation and experiments, written booklets on geography, history and industry, essays, etc., these furnish the opportunity for a liberal amount of this important work.

Drawing is made use of as a means of expressing ideas, and some of the results are excellent.

The course in reading is based on the theory that it is best for pupils to have clear ideas before they attempt to read and also upon the belief that the material read should be complete stories so far as possible corresponding with the child's degree of development, and such as the child loves, including myths, fairy story, fable, hero-story, biography, history, literature, etc. The list of books bought after the Marston school fire is believed to be made up of the very best publications; it was selected with great care and with the assistance of many experienced teachers and superintendents. I wish to thank the various publishers for the favorable terms cheerfully given us at that time.

The faults alluded to by State Superintendent Morrison are due in part to the fact that no persistent effort has been directed towards that widespread tendency of which Rousseau said "The child who reads does not think,—he merely reads; he is not receiving instructions but learning words." What is most needed to correct this is to defer the use of books even longer than at present, in proof of this I offer the fact that the reading is best relatively in the lower grades, third and fourth, and worst in the higher grades and high school.

The true method is never to ask pupils to read for the sake of getting ideas until the fifth year in school, below that grade they should thoroughly know the story they are to read before the book is placed in their hands.

Another reason for poor reading is a local one and is directly connected with the problem of the "over aged" pupil.

A reading crusade will soon overcome the chief difficulties.

Much emphasis is laid upon sense training in the primary grades a fact which accounts in no small degree for the quickness and accuracy with which our pupils respond to the teacher's efforts.

The habit of observing accurately is the foundation of all education and in this line gratifying results follow the outdoor excursions in geography and nature study. Cause and effect are seen in their true relation and pupils are provided with an ample supply of self-acquired ideas which manifest themselves in the oral and written work. If children have vivid ideas they are sure to result in clear-cut sentences, such pupils become bubbling fountains of sparkling ideas but on the other hand if words and sentences are demanded when ideas are wanting the effort becomes that of trying to "pump water from a dry well."

The Age of Pupils in the Various Grades.

In the reports of 1905 and 1906 the matter of the average age of pupils in the various grades is taken up. The figures given therein are such as to warrant the conclusion that pupils were held too long in the elementary schools.

There is no one factor more powerful in preventing children from commencing the high school course than the unwise practice of keeping them too long in the grades.

The subdivisions of a school system into primary, grammar and high school is not an artificial separation although it may seem to be such, it is rather based on fairly well defined periods of child development, and the tendency towards a twelve years' course broken into three groups of four years each is the natural result of a recognition of this fact. Physiologically and psychologically the nature of the child demands such a grouping and hence the average age of pupils grade by grade is a fair criterion by which to judge of the degree of organization of a school system.

The following tabular statement shows that our pupils are gradually adjusting themselves to a normal standard:

	Grade	Sept. '03	Sept. '04	Sept. '06	Standard
High	9	16½	15½	14¼	13½
	8		14½	13¾	12½
	7		13 1-6	13 1-6	11½
	6		12½	12	10½
Primary	5		11¾	10¾	9½
	4		11¼	11	8½
	3		9	8¾	7½
	2		7 1-6	7 1-6	6½

There are some abnormalities in these ages that are accounted for by certain peculiar local conditions, thus the excessive age of the 4th grade is due to a large number of pupils who come to us unable to do the work in a higher grade yet of an age that ought to place them in the 6th or 7th grade. This is a matter beyond our control although in many instances the best of these "over age" pupils make two or even three grades in a year while others drop out entirely as soon as the law permits.

It will probably require two years more for a complete regulation of this important matter by which time it seems to me the high school entrance age ought to reach its normal average of 13½ to 14 years.

The Mechanic Arts Course.

The most important development of the year is the establishment of the Mechanic Arts course in the high school.

When I first suggested the importance and desirability of this outgrowth of the sloyd in the grades I thought that 10 or possibly 15 pupils might elect the course and our equipment was selected with this number in mind. With the opening of the school, however, it was found that nearly or quite forty had chosen this work.

The equipment while not all that was needed answered well until the winter term when more tools were added so that at the present time we are able to handle the first year's work to good advantage. It seems very probable that a majority of the boys entering in future will be likely to elect this course consequently we may reasonably expect that within the next two years facilities must be provided for sixty to eighty pupils, this will require both more room and more equipment.

The course as outlined and approved provides for hand work in wood the first year, machine work in wood and pattern making the second year, hand work in iron the third year and machine work in iron the fourth. It covers the field of construction work from the simplest sawing, chiseling and planing to drawing a working plan, making a pattern or milling a gear.

For the coming year it will be necessary to add four new speed lathes to the four now in use and to provide a place, and the necessary forges and tools for a shop for hand iron working. At the suggestion of the chairman of the Board measurements have been made and a preliminary estimate of cost is ready showing that at comparatively small expense a suitable and permanent shop for both hand and machine iron work can be added to the high school building on the west end, and since a large amount of grading will be required to finish this end as it now stands, the cost of such an addition would be materially offset by the cost of such grading. It is probable that a contract can be let providing all the room that this department will need for many years for about $1000.

The Mechanic Arts course justifies itself from every point of view and while Berlin is the pioneer in this line in New Hampshire it is only a matter of a very few years when every high school of any considerable size will follow our lead.

All educational literature clearly shows that the day of educating the head exclusively, leaving the hand to take care of itself, is past. It is no longer permissible in this land of supreme industrial activity to let boys grow up to manhood with unskilled hands. Too long has the secondary and higher education emphasized the thought that trained brains are all that is needed, we have only to look across the ocean to see a nation whose industrial system is a close competitor and what is more to the point, growing more and more formidable year by year; Germany's industrial excellence is due almost entirely to her educational awakening a hundred years and more ago.

It is not true that all rules work both ways. Educating the head does not educate the hand but it is impossible to educate the hand without educating the head also.

"The training of the hand involves the training of the eye and the use of the higher faculties of judging and reasoning."

It means more than the most sanguine among us can apprehend; this movement for training the hand and mind to work in concert. It means better workmen and better citizens, it means more boys in the high school, and more earnestness in the pursuit of study; it means workers who can think and thinkers who can work.

It removes that common and to some extent justifiable criticism that education is not practical and at the same time avoids that cheap ten-weeks-education-while-you-wait idea that unfits rather than fits for citizenship.

As this course is outlined and as it will be developed it will require as much ability and as many hours of hard work and will mean as much mental training to successfully complete the four years as in any other course in the school.

As it now stands the expense of carrying on this course is to some extent offset by the construction of things needed in the school. The first work undertaken was the construction of 36 drawing tables and drawing boards, these take the place of what would have cost at least $175.00, while other articles already made will bring the value up to $200.00 or more. In the future filing cases, book cases, tables, apparatus for chemistry and physics, tee squares, a blue-print frame and in the end such machines as drills, lathes, etc., are among the possibilities.

Our equipment as it now stands has cost nearly $800. which considering the sums often spent in other places, demonstrates that manual training in the high school as well as in the grades need not be excessively expensive.

In conclusion I wish to thank the Board for its cordial support in every important step taken, and to again express my firm belief in the future of our schools.

Respectfully submitted,

GEORGE H. WHITCHER,

Superintendent of Schools.

Principal's Report.

BERLIN, N. H., February 15, 1907.

To Supt. Geo. H. Whitchee:

Dear Sir:—Upon assuming the duties of principal of the High school last September I found the conditions existing in the school not otherwise than had been represented to me by you and the Board.

I have not attempted to remedy all these conditions, an impossible task in one year.

Four things however that were noticeably wanting, and which seemed to me very essential to the highest welfare of the school we have endeavored to develop, viz: a spirit of obedience, a spirit of interest, a spirit of work and the habit of study.

That we have been highly successful in this effort I am sure you are aware from your intimate knowledge of present conditions in the school.

With the developing of these essentials has come, as would naturally be expected, many other improvements.

The whole demeanor of the pupil has been noticeably changed; the scholarship has been materially improved; the school and school life means more to the pupil than heretofore; the whole atmosphere of the school at the present time is that of work, of eagerness to do well, and to do all that is required.

In fact to quote State Supt. Morrison in his talk before the students "It is a self-respecting school."

The social side of school life has not been neglected. The excellent assembly hall has afforded ample opportunity for the Lyceum, social gatherings and receptions, and these we have endeavored to limit to reasonable numbers and to have them at such times as not to interfere with school work.

The students have appreciated these opportunities and it seems to me that there is not further excuse for their seeking these pleasures apart from the school.

The teachers have worked together in perfect harmony for the success of the school. They have placed their school work before all else, and urged their pupils to do likewise with a marked degree of success. To their conscientious, enthusiastic, faithful and able efforts I attribute in no small degree the good standing of the school.

The three new courses of study adopted by the Board and approved by the State Supt. of Public Instruction, have now been in operation for half a year.

The wisdom in adopting such courses has already been fully demonstrated.

The Latin course will fit for college and 41 are taking that course successfully.

The Commercial course as adopted is a very strong one, and is not in this school as it has been in many, a bed of ease for the sluggard. On the contrary it is a course requiring as much hard work, both in and out of the school room as either of the other courses.

The Commercial department is a very busy place, and a place where a practical education is being exemplified with 58 students.

The purpose of this department is not only to graduate boys and girls equipped for office work, but also equipped with a broad, generous education.

The course carried out as now begun I believe will do this.

The Mechanic Arts course has proven its practicability as well as its educational value. It doubtless will prove to be the popular course of the school. Thirty-nine are now taking it.

The possibilities of this course are great; and I trust that the plans entered upon this year will be still further enlarged upon next, thus permitting still more valuable and practical work to be done here than is already being done.

With a new class coming in and the present class advancing, the teacher of this department cannot next year be utilized in any other department as has been done this year.

We have felt keenly the need of a reference library. An excellent room has been provided but we have practically no reference books for it.

I trust a liberal amount will be expended for this purpose this coming year, and some definite amount for several years hereafter.

I would remind you that the chemical and physical laboratories, not used yet because not finished, must be completed and equipped in readiness for use next September as two classes will then be ready for work there.

Many things needed here can be made by the Mechanic Arts students; but many must necessarily be purchased and I hope that you will emphasize the importance of a first-class equipment.

The science classes will be very large next year and will require all the time of one teacher. This necessitates adding another to the teaching force.

I would suggest that the efficiency of the school would be more potent, could a special teacher be given a special branch of work.

We need also school room decoration. It is admitted I believe that pictures and statuary of the right class have in them a certain refining influence, a culture training, and education that plain, bare walls do not possess. With such a beautiful building to adorn it seems a pity for it to be unadorned.

I have in mind plans which if carried out, I think would enable us to make a beginning toward some definite scheme of decoration. I will later submit them to you for your approval.

The future of the school is bright. I have found the ability of the students fully up to the average.

With the habit of study more fully developed the quality of scholarship must necessarily improve.

The school should be on the approved list of New England colleges; and by holding firmly to a high standard of requirements it can be before three years.

For your valuable suggestions and co-operation in the governing and teaching of the school, I wish to thank you in behalf of all the teachers connected with it; and to assure you that we shall be very glad to receive and act upon further suggestions from you in the future.

Obediently yours,

F. S. LIBBRY, Prin.

RECORD OF ADOPTION.

At a meeting of the school board held August 2nd, 1906, the foregoing was adopted as the program of studies for the Berlin High School.
 Approved, as above, for the year ending June, 1907. HENRY C. MORRISON, State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

New Marston School.

Report of Building Committee of New Marston School.

BERLIN, N. H., February 15, 1907.

To the Board of Education and City Council :

The problems presented by the burning of the Marston school in February, 1906, have been satisfactorily solved by the erection of a new brick eight room school house of thoroughly modern design and equipment.

The Board of Education on March 24th adopted the plans prepared by Wm. R. Miller of Lewiston, Maine, and the same day bids were called for.

The Building Committee met and organized with Councilman E. M. Cross as chairman and Supt. G. H. Whitchee secretary.

Contracts were awarded for the general construction to A. N. Gilbert of Berlin in the sum of $19,650.00 and for the heating, plumbing, and ventilating to John Quinn for the Berlin Mills Co., the amount being $4,831.00.

In addition to the general contract the price of ledge work was to be $2.00 per yard.

On account of the impossibility of getting Southern pine for floor timbers in season for the work the committee with the approval of the architect subsequently authorized the use of steel beams and spruce floor timbers at an extra expense for all accompanying changes of $85.00.

After the general contract was let it was thought best to modify the indirect heating layout giving a better regulation of the heat and cold air supply, this change enlarged the cold air rooms and necessitated the use of steel beams not previously called for, a change for which the committee allowed $108.57.

The measurements made by the city engineer made the cost of the ledge work in basement $630.00.

The only "extra" in connection with the execution of the plans was an item of $18.00 for a section of wardrobe shelves and hooks.

On the other hand the Board and Committee authorized other modifications among which were the use of a part of the old wall not injured by fire, the omission of concrete floor under the Sloyd room, change from clear pine to common pine in outside finish, from first quality floor to second quality, and other items amounting to $381.20. These modifications in no way injure the building and represent just so much money saved to the city.

The committee also dispensed with the services of an inspector and and by vote assigned the work of looking after the details of construction to the Secretary of the Committee, who in conjunction with the Chairman of the Board of Education has to the best of his ability seen that the work has been faithfully carried out.

The original bids and such estimates as the committee made and reported to the Council March 24th placed the anticipated cost of the building complete, exclusive of water and sewer connections outside of the building, at $25,875.27, the actual cost was $25,754.39 leaving $120.88 to help pay for the cost of sewer and water connections these latter amounting to $235.09. The difference between these last two sums, namely, $114.21 is the amount that it will be necessary to appropriate to cover all bills for the completed building including all extra outside work

The heating, plumbing and ventilating plant was modified by vote of the Committee after the contract was let because certain building ordinances and changes in the lay out necessitated additional venting and also because the original sewer lay out was defective owing to lack of information as to the location of the old sewer. These changes consisted in substituting "standard" for "extra" sewer pipe in basement; in changes in the quality of lavatory sets and in a few other non-essentials, the savings thus authorized balanced the extra pipe and labor necessary in adapting the whole to the conditions discovered when the basement was cleared, so that on the whole job there has been nothing extra above the original bid. It deserves to be said, however, that the modified sewer lay out probably saved from $100. to $200. of blasting that would otherwise have been necessary.

The working of the heating and ventilating system is most remarkable as the severe tests of an unusually cold winter have demonstrated.

Careful tests show that the ventilation is as perfect as can be, that not only are we able to remove 30 cu. ft. of air per pupil per minute which is equal to changing all of the air in each room every eight minutes, but with vent flues wide open we have moved twice that amount of air. The heating contrary to the expectations of many is very economical. On the coldest days with the thermometer at 20 to 30 degrees below zero at 8 a. m., and not above zero at noon it has not required above 1200 lbs. of coal and from that down to 500 lbs. on mild days.

It must be remembered that this system takes the air from the outside, say at 20 below zero, warms it up to 90 degrees and keeps it in constant circulation during school hours at the rate of 1200 cu. ft. per room every minute or 9600 cu. ft. every minute for the whole building.

In the old Marston building with no ventilation and with only six rooms it often required from 1200 to 1800 lbs of coal a day and then the rooms were too cold for safety or comfort. The belief that a gravity system of ventilation will not work is erroneous as also is the idea that it is extravagant in use of fuel, provided the system is properly laid out and erected and properly run.

The new Marston school is a remarkably satisfactory building, well heated, thoroughly ventilated, light, convenient and probably not to be duplicated in cost and efficiency anywhere else in the state.

Several unique features in its plan combine to save at least $2000. without sacrificing a single thing in usefulness or convenience.

As a matter of construction it is a record breaker in several ways. It was built within the estimated cost, was completed and occupied upon the day agreed upon in the contract and if we consider that the whole time from the day the first brick was laid until school was opened was only five days over three months it will have to be admitted that Berlin can challenge the country for a like record.

Report of High School Building Committee.

To the City Council and the Board of Education of the City of Berlin:

The joint building committee of the New High School beg leave to submit the following brief statement of the work done under their direction during the past financial year :

The work of construction, as covered in our report of last year, was continued during the spring and summer by the general contractors, Russell & Craigue of this city, with the exception of a short time in the early spring when it seemed advisable to stop work temporarily on account of weather conditions. From that time on the work was pushed along as fast as conditions would permit and the work was practically completed in time for the opening of the fall term, although some minor details had to be completed after the commencement of the school, a condition which should not have obtained had the contractors not been delayed by matters beyond the ability of the building committee to control.

The plumbing and heating equipment was put in by The C. H. Goss Co. of St. Johnsbury, Vt. Some little difficulty was experienced during the early part of the winter in getting satisfactory heating and ventilating results, but this has been practically adjusted in full so that at the time of writing this report excellent results are being obtained.

The amount of the appropriation expended in 1905 was $21,932.60 and in 1906, $25,545.31, making a total expenditure of $47,477.91 to date. The final payment to the general contractors has not been made, and this amount will have to be carried into the next financial year.

While there have been some delays in the final adjustment of matters relating to the completion of the building your committee feels that excellent results have been obtained and that Berlin now has as thoroughly modern and well planned a High School building as can be found in the state.

The size of the school and the prospect for its early and rapid growth fully warrant the opinions expressed a year and a half ago regarding the size, location and general design of the structure.

A considerable amount has been expended beyond the requirements of the original contracts, particularly for grading, the adding of labor saving devices within the building that are a permanent part of it, fireproofing the boiler room and in providing better heating facilities in the basement.

During the coming summer the work of grading about the building should be completed, the house at the rear now owned by the City should be removed and a few other minor matters given attention. With these completed the general location and surroundings will be much improved and the expense will not be large.

Respectfully submitted,

FINANCIAL REPORTS.

Municipal Regulations.

FOR THE PAYMENT of BILLS AGAINST THE CITY.

All bills against the City must be approved by the person author-the charge; and unless this is done, no action can be taken upon the bill by the Committee on Accounts and Claims, and no order will be given for its payment. When bills are certified to as above, and left with the City Clerk not later than 12 o'clock M., on the Saturday preceding the first Tuesday of each month, they will be audited by the Committee on Accounts and Claims, and, if approved by them and allowed by the Council, will be ready for payment on the following Thursday, at the office of the City Treasurer.

Meetings of the Committee on Accounts and Claims are held on Monday preceding the first Tuesday of each month, and the regular meetings of the City Council are held on the first Tuesday of each month at 8 o'clock P. M.

Report of Finance Committee.

BERLIN, N. H., February 26, 1907.

To the City Council of the City of Berlin:

The books of the Assessors, Tax Collector, City Treasurer, City Clerk and Clerk of the Police Court have been audited by Mr. Arthur T. Brynes, and his report of said audit will be found on another page of this report.

The report of the City Treasurer is annexed to and made a part of this report, as required by the City ordinance.

Several of the departments have been heavily overdrawn during the past year. Among these are the following:

Schools.....	$ 7,188 67
Fire department.....	5,167 51
Police department.....	1,590 05
Street department.....	4,909 68
Sewer department.....	2,886 19

We have been to an extra expense of over $50,000 this year, on account of the building of the two new school houses.

The overdraft in the Street department is because of the settlement of several claims for damages caused by floods; the amount expended for these claims being about $3000.00.

In the Fire department the appropriation was overdrawn by reason of relocating the sewer at the Central Fire Station, making other improvements in and about the building, and purchasing additional horses and apparatus, about $6,500 being expended in this way.

Following are the amounts which we deem adequate to cover the expenses in each of the various departments for the ensuing year.

Recommendations.
